

Coup Thwarted In Saigon

SAIGON (AP) A coup against the government of President Nguyen Van Thieu was thwarted Tuesday night, a reliable government source said today.

Other informed sources said several ranking Vietnamese marine officers, ranging from majors to colonels, had been arrested.

More Arrests Promised

The disclosure of the coup attempt follows by hours an announcement that South Vietnamese armed forces had been placed on full alert Tuesday afternoon.

The high government source said, "You can expect a lot of people to be arrested in the next few days, all as a result of the coup attempt that failed."

This source said details of the coup attempt were still incomplete and it was not yet known who was behind it or how widespread it was.

The fact that several marine officers were arrested could indicate the involvement of Lt. Gen. Le Nguyen Khang, the marine commandant and a close political ally of Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, the president's political rival. This could not be confirmed. Khang's whereabouts were not known.

Marines Replaced

Marine units in the Saigon area recently were replaced by rangers at the order of Thieu, reportedly because he feared a coup by Khang.

Reports of the attempted coup came on the heels of the announcement that paratroopers of the U. S. 82nd Airborne Division have been moved into the Saigon military district to protect the city's western flank against enemy attack.

The announcement followed an order from the South Vietnamese government alerting all government army and air force units in and around Saigon, apparently because of political uneasiness.

Had Been Planned

Military sources said the U.S. troop shift had been planned some time ago. U.S. spokesmen said the transfer of the 82nd Airborne troops was aimed at realigning some American units and allowing a brigade of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division, now under operational control of the Capital Military Assistance Command, to return to the control of its division.

The 3rd Brigade of the 82nd, about 4,000 men, is replacing the 25th Division brigade. The infantrymen are moving farther out along the jungled approaches northwest of Saigon in the outer ring of defense around Saigon.

The paratroopers, from Fort Bragg, N.C., arrived in South

Vietnam last February and have been operating in the northernmost 1st Corps area below the demilitarized zone.

Informed sources said the South Vietnamese alert order was based on an uneasiness caused by the return from exile of former Chief of State Gen. Duong Van Minh, as well as possible developments at the preliminary peace talks in Paris.

But government spokesmen and sources gave varying accounts of what prompted the alert.

Normal Precaution

A source in President Nguyen Van Thieu's office said it was "a normal precaution we take from time to time." He said it was called because of intelligence of possible Viet Cong action against the Capital.

An Information Ministry spokesman, Nguyen Van Noan, said the alert had been ordered because of intelligence reports concerning possible action by "troublemakers."

"We cannot confirm that they are Communists or political troublemakers," he said.

Elsewhere, waves of U.S. B52 Stratofortresses roared over the southern fringes of North Vietnam Tuesday to lay protective shields of bombs around American Marines sweeping through the demilitarized zone.

Thirty of the eight-jet planes dropped 1,000 tons of bombs in support of Marines from the 26th Regiment searching for

North Vietnamese troops in the southern half of the old neutral buffer zone that separates the two Vietnams.

Support Units Hit

Smaller tactical fighter-bombers flew 129 missions over North Vietnam's southern panhandle Tuesday in the continuing effort to slow the movement of troops and war materiel across the demilitarized zone. Pilots reported destroying or damaging 32 supply boats and 21 trucks.

The Marines have been sweeping through part of the demilitarized zone above an outpost called the Rockpile since Sept. 17. They have had only two significant fights, including one Tuesday in which they clashed with a platoon of perhaps 30 North Vietnamese soldiers in dug-in positions. The fight was two miles inside the southern half of the DMZ.

With the help of artillery and dive-bombers, the Marines blasted the enemy troops into retreat. North Vietnamese losses were put at 17 dead in the 4½-hour fight. The Marine casualties were three killed and 48 wounded under a withering barrage of enemy small arms, mortar and rocket grenade fire. Military communiques reported another five enemy weapons and food stockpiles uncovered in scattered parts of the country Tuesday by allied troops.

In the most significant, South Vietnamese troops came upon an enemy supply base about 15 miles south of the DMZ near the provincial capital of Quang Tri. The base yielded nearly 500 rocket and mortar rounds, more than 1,000 pounds of medicines, 20,000 yards of timing wire, 500 uniforms and a number of mines.

Marines Honor Their Own - The 3,000 Khe Sanh Dead

By JOHN T. WHEELER

KHE SANH, Vietnam (AP) — The U.S. Marines paid homage today to 3,000 comrades killed or wounded in the 77-day siege of Khe Sanh.

The bearded, hollow-eyed men who held the base early this year might have smiled at this if they could have foreseen the memorial service that finally was held.

There were generals, a band, and two honor guards drawn up in neat formations on an aircraft parking ramp that during the siege was constantly pounded by North Vietnamese rockets, mortar and artillery shells. Before the siege was broken in April, a military formation like this one would have been madness.

At the height of the siege, up to 1,500 rounds fell on the small camp in a single day. Men lived and sometimes died in sand-bagged bunkers. The camp air was heavy with the smell of unwashed bodies.

A Chaplain Recalls

Capt. John E. Goller, a Navy chaplain from Bonita Springs, Fla., looked across the shell-pocked landscape today as he recited: "Yea, though I walked through the valley of the shadow of death..."

A Marine at Khe Sanh during the siege had the same words inscribed on his helmet, but finished the prayer this way, "...for I am the meanest man in the Khe Sanh valley."

The memorial service was made possible because the Marine once again are in the Khe Sanh valley on a wide ranging sweep searching for any enemy strong points. The Khe Sanh combat base was abandoned and destroyed in July when the Marines closed down permanent operations in the valley. The decision to close the base was made to give the Marines enough men for mobile warfare instead of being tied down in static defense.

The siege which started in January tied up 5,500 Marines at Khe Sanh and by the time it was lifted 300 Americans and South Vietnamese had been killed.

Senior Marines say now they will never be caught in defensive positions like Khe Sanh again. The far-ranging mobile operations launched following the abandonment of Khe Sanh have proved highly successful and have carried the Marines inside the Demilitarized Zone and into other areas never before visited by U.S. troops.

As Sgt. Herbert Day of Chattanooga, Tenn., played taps under fluttering American and Vietnamese flags, only two men here could recall the days of the massive shelling during the siege.

Capt. John Gilece of Forest Hills, N.Y., had last seen Khe Sanh from a medical evacuation helicopter after a sniper's bullet smashed into his knee in January.

Maj. Joe Donnelly of Kailua, Hawaii, had been the executive officer of one of the infantry battalions during the siege.

The honor guard was commanded by Lt. Col. Frank Bourne Jr. of Savannah Ga., the battalion commander.

Sports Celebrity Killed In Route 28 Auto Accident

By WALTER S. CLARK

A spectacular two-vehicle head-on collision on Route 28 in the Town of Olive at 6:40 p.m. Tuesday, took the life of a widely known 33-year-old area sportsman, the father of three children.

Anatole Alexandrovich of Krumville, operator of a car involved in the crash, was instantly killed, according to authorities.

The 42nd highway fatality in Ulster County this year, was investigated by State Police and Coroner Henry S. Hartley of Saugerties, who withheld a verdict pending further investigation.

Troopers said Alexandrovich was driving his car west on the highway when he pulled out to pass an unidentified vehicle. He apparently didn't notice the oncoming tractor-trailer owned by Dellwood Distributors of 170 Saw Mill River Road, and operated by Lawrence White, 28, of Maridell Road, Maridell.

Authorities reported the truck driver made a futile attempt to avoid a collision, but the tractor-trailer was hit by the Krumville man's car. The truck continued on along the pavement, pushing the passenger car some 50 feet before it ran over the top of the Alexandrovich vehicle crushing it to a mass of twisted steel.

Alexandrovich was pinned in the wreckage of his car. An ambulance crew from Doctors Ambulance Service and state troopers assisted by others at the scene worked feverishly for some time before they could separate the car and extricate the dying man. Ambulance attendants administered aid as the rescue work was pushed.

The Krumville man was rushed to the Kingston Hospital where he was officially pronounced dead on arrival. The body was removed to the county morgue for examination. A tow truck was dispatched to the scene to haul away the wreckage.

Authorities said the operator of the truck was not injured.

Preliminary investigation indicated that Alexandrovich died of multiple fractures and internal injuries. A formal finding is pending.

State Police BCI Investigator John A. Salters and Trooper Patrick Sheehan of the Kingston substation investigated the fatal crash with Coroner Hartley. They said no charges were filed against the driver of the tractor-trailer.

Top Soccer Player

Alexandrovich was familiarly known in sports circles in the area as Tony Alexander. He was an outstanding soccer player and served two years as manager of the Kingston Sports Club. He also was active in hunting and fishing circles in the county.

Brooklyn School Violence Erupts Again

NEW YORK (UPI)—Violence erupted today in the racially sensitive Ocean Hill-Brownsville experimental school district in Brooklyn shortly after seven ousted principals were barred from entering their schools.

Police swinging nightsticks clubbed at least three men to the ground outside Junior High School 271, focal point in the dispute over the reinstatement of 83 white teachers in the predominantly Negro and Puerto Rican district.

At least seven persons, including one woman, were arrested.

The violence erupted shortly after the Board of Education announced that JHS 271 had been closed for the day because of disorders in the corridors.

The children began milling around outside and parents, about 200 strong, began to converge on the scene. A heavy police contingent was on hand at JHS 271 with officers behind barricades, on rooftops and clustered at strategic points.

Supt. of Schools Bernard Donovan arrived on the scene and ordered the schools reopened. A few minutes later, officers began to push a noisy crowd of protesters away from the barricades. Several women who said they were mothers of pupils refused to move.

Suddenly the police surged forward and the crowd broke and ran. Plainclothesmen and uniformed police swinging nightsticks clubbed three men before they again secured most of the crowd behind the barricades.

Police officials then ordered 25 Negro patrolmen to exchange positions with white officers manning the barricades.

"They're just doing this so the black cops will be blamed for whatever happens," one man in the crowd shouted.

District administrator Rhody McCoy who also was relieved of his duties by Supt. of Schools Bernard E. Donovan Tuesday walked into his office this morning past 20 policemen without incident. He told newsmen city officials would have to remove him bodily.

McCoy had permitted the teachers to enter the eight schools in the district, an experiment in community control of public schools but they were not allowed to teach.

The ousted principals were met by officials of the Board of Education when they arrived at their schools this morning and were turned back.

Chest Officials Make Plea

Reports from Ulster County Community Chest headquarters office indicate a serious problem in this year's fund drive now underway. Achieving the goal may not be a reality if the present trend continues, according to executive director Wilfred (Bud) G. Springer.

Returns are running considerably behind last year, drive leaders said, for the campaign that has been underway for almost four weeks.

It was recalled in the announcement that last year's effort produced the first success in the Chest's then 13-year history.

Beat" would go on and the goal of $345,000 would be reached. However, officials pointed out today that "the funds are extremely slow in coming in."

It is thought by many in and around the campaign that one reason for the lag may be that a large portion of the Chest population area has, as yet, remained untapped. Even with a large team working diligently for the Chest, it is doubtful that all will be contacted.

Officials are sure that many area residents will not be contacted. Springer expressed hope that these people will take the initiative and call the Chest office and offer their contributions.

Springer said a call to 331-4700 in Kingston would insure participation in the campaign.

Contributions may also be made by visiting the headquarters in the Gov. Clinton Hotel.

Chest officials remain confident that the goal will be reached, but only if voluntary contributions are pushed.

General campaign chairman William J. Pearson reported that his teams' efforts are being greatly intensified in the short time that remains. "It all depends on the people in the area contacting us with their fair share contribution. Without them we're in trouble."

Citing the $345,000 goal during a talk before the Kingston Kiwanis Club as the drive began, Richard Rochford, vice-chairman, said the goal was possible. He noted the 29 per cent growth rate in the county, stating that this growth was the largest in New York State in 10 years.

The amount, he said, is vitally needed to carry on the work of the social agencies now endeavoring to keep pace with the population expansion of the county.

The Chest agencies in Ulster County serve more than two out of every three persons in the chest area.

The Community Chest serves as a non-profit philanthropic corporation which functions as the central budgeting and financing body for the 14 agencies. It is supervised by a large number of officers, directors and hundreds of committee members who all serve voluntarily and without pay.

CHEST SCHEDULE — Miss Rina Gering, of the Ulster County Community Chest, examines a schedule with H. Edward Carter Jr., assistant secretary of the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston, at the Chest headquarters in the Gov. Clinton Hotel. The headquarters keeps a check on the progress of the campaign now underway in the Chest area, noting the daily advance of pledges and contributions and makes arrangements for billing of pledges. With a little more than a week to go, the $345,000 goal for the "Winning Beat" drive is still running. Chest officials say that without the support of the individuals in the area the goal may not be reached. Persons who have not been approached are asked by the headquarters to call 331-4700 and make their pledge.

Man Fatally Injured On Dutchess RR Tracks

A 60-year-old man was fatally injured shortly before 3 a. m. today when he struck and run over by a switch engine on a siding in the Penn Central Railroad yard near the Poughkeepsie station, according to police investigators.

Both Legs Amputated

Police Lieut. Leo Maneri said the victim was identified as Joseph E. Connors. Efforts were being made by detectives to locate relatives of the man, whose both legs were amputated. The yard has been a haven for vagrants who sleep in the passenger cars on side tracks, police said.

According to preliminary investigation it was not immediately learned what Connors was doing on the railroad tracks at the early hour. It was reported the man was thrown several feet after being hit by the engine.

Connors was taken to Vassar Hospital where Detectives Jack Durkin and Stanley Dahowski questioned him in an effort to find out where he resided. Police said the dying man mumbled Liberty Street when asked his home address.

The hospital reported the man, believed to have been a drifter, died at 5:50 a. m., two hours after he was hit by the train. The body was removed to the county morgue and Dr. William G. Thompson, an assistant medical examiner of Rhinebeck, was notified.

Would Put County Sales Tax on Ballot

A recommendation to have the county sales tax placed on the ballot for Election Day, Nov. 5 in an unofficial public opinion poll was outlined by Gardiner Supervisor George Majestic at the recent meeting of Gardiner Civic and Taxpayers Association.

Even through the last day for filing such proposals with the Board of Elections was Sept. 23, Majestic said the County Legislature could direct the Board of Elections to have the proposal inserted into the voting machines as an unofficial ballot. He said the approval of the Secretary of State may be necessary in the matter.

Urges Letters

Majestic, who is running for member of assembly on the Liberal ticket said, "Taxpayers who pay the bills should have the right to decide how the bills should be paid."

Majestic also recommended that strong measures should be taken by the taxpayers themselves by writing letters to the County Legislators to override the pressure that was applied by the Ulster County Assessors Association upon the legislators that they not take any action on the county-wide appraisal at the present time. Their reason being that some townships may reduce the Board of Assessors from a three-man to a one-man board, he said.

On the county tax mapping and appraisal proposal under study by the Legislature's Tax Base Study Committee, Majestic said he strongly feels that the tax mapping and appraisal should be done at the same time and not piecemeal because it would save many hundreds of dollars in duplication of effort and manpower.

Majestic urged all taxpayers to write to the county board indicating that they favor voting on the sales tax, tax mapping and reappraisal programs.

He said he would welcome a debate on these issues with Legislator Clarence C. Raichle, R-Kingston, who is chairman of the Tax Base Study Committee.

He said he is willing to debate anywhere, any time, because he feels that the taxpayers have the right to know both sides of the story on the county sales tax, the tax mapping and the reappraisal proposals.

Buckley Set As Speaker

James L. Buckley, the Conservative Party candidate for the U.S. Senatorial seat now held by Jacob Javits, will deliver an address in Kingston Wednesday, Oct. 16, at the Ulster County Conservative Party Candidates' Night program to be held at the Gov. Clinton Hotel Crystal Room, at 8:30.

Commenting on the coming senatorial election, Frank Grinell, program chairman said, Buckley has been described as the man uniquely equipped to make the U.S. Senate race in 1968 a genuine three-way contest. His candidacy will again write a new chapter in New York State political history, by offering a distinct alternative to the liberal philosophy of both Sen. Jacob Javits and Paul O'Dwyer.

Buckley, 45, is vice-president and director of Catawba Corp. of New York City. His duties have taken him to Europe, Africa, South America, Australia and Canada. In 1965 he was campaign manager for his brother, William F. Buckley, Jr., in his bid for mayor of New York City. During World War II Buckley served with the U.S. Navy.

On accepting the nomination as candidate for the U.S. Senate this spring, Buckley stated, "We take the view that a well-ordered society must insist with firmness on compliance with its laws," and "we do not feel that the seething tensions in our cities will be relieved by urging the expenditure of unobtainable sums on largely unworkable programs."

Also scheduled to speak briefly during the program are Judge George L. Cobb, candidate for the Supreme Court; Michael Lange, State Senatorial candidate; H. Clark Bell, Assembly candidate; incumbent Sheriff William B. Martin; and Henry S. Hartley, unopposed incumbent coroner. The public is invited.

Firebombs Thrown (UPI)—Demonstrators threw firebombs and poured tar in front of the Bolivian embassy Sunday on the first anniversary of the death of Ernesto Che Guevara, a Latin American Communist guerrilla leader. There was no damage reported. Guevara died in Bolivia.

KENNEDY ENDORSEMENT — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (L), pictured with Democratic Congressional candidate John Dyson, has given the Millbrook publisher an endorsement saying he is "a young man with energy and ideas who offers new programs to old problems."

Local Political Activities

GOP COCHAIRMEN — Thomas F. Mayone, center, Republican candidate for sheriff, announced the appointment of Sal Castiglione (L) and Richard Nace (R), as cochairmen of his campaign in the Town of Ulster. Both men are committeemen in the GOP organization and Nace is an elected county legislator representing the Second District of Ulster, Hurley, Marlborough and Kingston. In accepting the appointments they concluded that "with Mayone's experience and training, we are confident that Ulster County will have law and order restored and maintained."

Anti-Wallace Committee Meets

A non-partisan "Committee Against Disaster" was formed last night in Poughkeepsie by Dutchess County Liberal Party candidate Joseph Marvella who says that as a concerned private citizen he wants to organize anti-Wallace sentiment.

Calling George Wallace's bid for the presidency, a "menace" to the nation, Marvella said this week that he has publicly rejected an offer made recently by Frank Toman, a member of the Dutchess County Citizens for Wallace Committee, to, in effect, talk it over.

Marvella said, "The candidacy of Wallace and his choice for vice president, 'Old Ironpants' LeMay, who wants victory in Vietnam even if it takes nuclear weapons, is a glaring insult to every thinking American."

Marvella said, adding: "When Hitler was coming to power in Germany, a brave underground fighter warned that it would be fatal to 'turn the other cheek to a fascist.' Nevertheless, some complacent Germans did exactly that millions of decent people died in concentration camp gas-chambers. 'I'd sooner talk it over with the Boston Strangler than anyone committed to the racist, tub-thumping policies of Wallace and General LeMay. I happen to be one Poughkeepsie barber and ex-prizefighter who sincerely believes 'it can happen here' . . . and God help us, if we don't heed our Cassandra Call while there's still time," concluded Marvella.

Bell Names Mataraza District Coordinator

Patrick Mataraza of Marlborough has accepted appointment as Ninth Legislative district coordinator for the Towns of Marlborough and Lloyd in the assembly campaign of H. Clark Bell, Republican - Conservative candidate.

Mataraza is a life long resident of Marlborough. He has served as town tax collector for two terms and is in his second term as Town Justice. While attending the Justice Training School at Albany Law School, Mataraza received one of the highest grades in the state wide testing. He is a member of the Milton Engine Company, St. James Holy Name Society, Marlborough Progress Club, International Counsellor Lions Clubs, and has served as president of the Ulster County Magistrate's Association. He is also a member of the New York State Magistrate's Association. Before becoming Town Justice, Mataraza served as GOP town chairman for the Town of Marlborough.

Dyson In Saugerties, Logs 25,000th Mile

Congressional candidate John Dyson, in a typical 18-hour day of campaigning, devoted his entire day yesterday to Saugerties—from factories to local shops, from the Katsbaan Inn to the American Legion, logging his 25,000th mile on the campaign trail since April.

Referring to the 28th District, Dyson stated: "This District, being three-quarters the size of Connecticut, represents a geographic challenge. While it is one of the most beautiful in our country, it requires an active, dedicated man to represent the citizens living in its 3,800 square miles. It is this reason that I pledge to keep three district offices open, in three district offices open, to provide a mobile office to tour towns and villages not accessible to the cities, and send out a newsletter and questionnaire to my constituents each month, the needs of each citizen."

Noting a definite upswing in his campaign, the Democratic nominee told an enthusiastic group of supporters "I run for the office of Congress because I care about people. I feel it is the duty and obligation of a Congressman to represent each and every citizen of his district. He must return to the district and bring the problems of the people back to Washington with him."

Gorman, Bell To Be Speakers At Meetings

Assembly candidates Dr. Gerald P. Gorman, Democrat and H. Clark Bell, Republican Conservative, will be guest speakers at two upcoming area meetings.

Gorman is scheduled appear Monday, Oct. 14, at a gathering of the Woodstock Taxpayer-Association, 8 p. m. at Deane's Restaurant, Woodstock.

Bell will be the principal speaker at a meeting of the Kingston Area Conservative Club, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Ulster County Court House, 285 Wall Street.

Registration Day Opposition By Majestic

Town of Gardiner Supervisor George Majestic will offer a resolution at the next town board meeting that would put the board on record as opposing voter registration day.

Majestic said that Ulster County must spend $45,000 for registering voters and that "the voters can merely register with the town clerk and any late registration can be done on primary day."

The Democratic supervisor and Liberal Party candidate for the State Assembly said that his motion, if approved by the Gardiner board, would be sent not only to the Ulster County Legislature but to the State Legislature in Albany in that the resolution would favor the elimination of registration day throughout the state.

Guilty Plea For Driver In Fatal Crash

A 26-year-old Greene County man, who pleaded guilty in Dutchess County court to a charge of reckless driving in connection with a fatal two-car collision, will be sentenced by Judge Joseph Giudice on Nov. 6.

Herbert A. Graver, of Hunter, also had been indicted on a criminal negligence charge, but it was indicated in court that charge would be dismissed.

Authorities said Graver, a at Stormville, was traveling in guard at Green Haven Prison the wrong direction on Route 9 last Dec. 1, when his car was in collision with a sheriff's department vehicle south of Wappingers Falls.

Killed in the accident was Mrs. Olga Horton, 26, of 7 Chappardi Place, Beacon. Deputy Sheriff Donald F. Williams of Fishkill, was operating the patrol car at the time of the accident.

Three vehicle and traffic law violations were lodged early today by Kingston Police against Angel Velez, 24, of Rosemarie Cabins, Route 9W, Kingston. He was booked for speeding, passing a flashing red light and failure to signal. The case was scheduled before City Judge Hubert A. Richter.

Sinsabaugh Takes Issue With Davis

Clifford G. Sinsabaugh, Fifth Ward alderman, took exception today to a press release issued yesterday by Burton C. Davis, campaign manager for Republican Louis J. Smith who seeks an aldermanic post in the new Fifth Ward.

The Democrat Sinsabaugh, who is seeking election in the new Tenth Ward took issue with Davis statement in yesterday's Freeman in which he says, that if Smith is elected in the new Fifth Ward it will "be the only ward in the city that does business on other than an evenings and weekend basis."

Sinsabaugh defending his own position said: "As for being available at any time for meeting with the various departments during their working hours, and he (Smith) being the only one in such capacity is strictly a falsehood. I would suggest to Davis that he assemble the facts when he intends to release such statements."

"Since my election as alderman of the old Fifth Ward, now the new Tenth, I have adjusted my working hours to the extent that I too, may make this statement. My hours of employment are from 11:45 p. m. to 7:45 a. m. each working day. "My reason for arranging this time of work was to afford me the opportunity to best serve the residents of my ward and be available at the times of day and night when the various city offices were open and to be available for any and all meetings regardless of the time they were to be held."

Smith, an unsuccessful candidate for alderman-at-large last year, is running against Democrat John Finch.

Rhodesia Talks On High Seas

GIBRALTAR (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Britain met the leader of breakaway Rhodesia's white minority government today in a new effort to persuade him to let the majority Africans rule eventually.

But Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith came into the meeting, aboard the British assault ship Fearless moored off Gibraltar, committed to preventing African rule "within my lifetime."

Wilson said the talks will be "aimed at discovering whether it would be possible to arrive at a settlement of the Rhodesia problem which would be acceptable to both sides."

The alternative, he said on British television before leaving London Tuesday, could be "a lurch into apartheid, into perhaps even a blood bath in Rhodesia."

Smith's government, which represents 220,000 whites in a country of 4 million Africans, declared independence from Britain in November 1965. Britain refused to accept this, saying it would free the colony only when provision is made for majority African rule.

But the British government has been unwilling to enforce its position by sending troops to Rhodesia. Instead, Britain and other nations have applied pressure by halting trade with Rhodesia, pulling it down from prosperity to severe economic stress.

So far, with the aid of the apartheid regime in neighboring South Africa, Smith's government has survived this pressure and put down African terrorists on its borders.

Gardiner Board OKs Budget, Controversy on County Levy

By CHARLES BERMPOL

The Gardiner Town Board adopted a preliminary budget last night that showed an $11,651.78 increase over this year's figures. The budget will be presented to the taxpayers at a public hearing Nov. 7.

One reason for the raise was due to the sanitary landfill operation which will cost the township an additional $5,000.

There was also an increase of $1,200 for the recreation program. This matches a $1,200 grant from the state.

Other Boosts

Other increases were due to the raising of salaries and insurance policies of town employees.

Supervisor George Majestic said that "It is the opinion of the town board that the line (on taxes) was held," and he stated that the growth of the community would account for the general increase.

The total amount to be raised through taxes is $68,604.95. The 1968 figure was $56,953.17.

A controversy arose on the matter of a county-wide sales tax when the Democratic supervisor made the motion to have the board go on record as favoring a county referendum on the matter.

There was no seconding of the motion from the Republican board members.

It was Councilman Robert Lacouette who explained that "Nobody will vote for a tax," but that the county "can't have an infirmity or a county park without taxes," and that the County Legislature should make the decision on the necessity of a sales tax.

Majestic said that a county sales tax "was not a tax on the ability to pay," and that only large corporations and absentee landowners would benefit from such a tax.

The supervisor made another motion to have the board "give Gardiner voters an unofficial ballot (on Nov. 5) to determine how they feel on a sales tax."

This motion was also defeated through lack of seconding. Town Justice Warren Mc-Dowell declared that the voters could not vote for or against any piece of legislation that had not yet been passed. He said "There must be some merits for the sales tax," and he underlined that the entertainment industry "is big in Ulster County," and that a sales tax could bring in a vast amount of money from the industry.

"There is no concrete information on how much can be raised (by such a tax) or who will pay," McDowell said.

Majestic then moved that a request be made to the legislature that it send out all available information on the tax "to every taxpayer in the county," and that only when the taxpayers have been informed and have voted on the matter should the legislature be allowed to move on the tax.

Again, the Majestic motion died through lack of a second, but Councilman Louis Bevier amended the move to read that the board request the legislature to distribute information about the tax and then vote on its desirability only when "they (the legislature) know how the taxpayers feel on the tax."

Only Town Justice McDowell voted against the motion.

Other Board Action

In other board action, Nov. 20 was set as the date for a town meeting to "determine the future of Gardiner."

The meeting would take up the matter of zoning and the feasibility of creating a town park.

Upon questioning from a member of the audience, it was pointed out that $500 is put in the public welfare section of the budget for "emergency relief" and that the town welfare officer, Richard Borchering of New Paltz, is paid $500 annually to administer the fund. Majestic said that, as supervisor, he could become the welfare officer, without any cost to the town, if the board agreed. The matter could be broached, he said, at the Nov. 7 hearing.

Scranton Woman Better Next Day... Pain Of Piles Relieved

Treatment Promptly Relieves
Pain, Itching In Most Cases

Scranton, Pa. Mrs. J. Straniere, Jr. of this city writes: "When I had our son, I got hemorrhoids and how painful. My husband bought Preparation H for me. The next day, I was much better — just after using it once."

(Note: Doctors have proved in most cases—Preparation H® actually shrinks inflamed hemorrhoids. In case after case, the sufferer first notices prompt relief from pain, burning and itching. Then swelling is gently reduced.)

There's no other formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids like doctor-tested Preparation H. It also lubricates to make bowel movements more comfortable, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.)

Find Man Guilty, Possessed Gun At RFK Funeral

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 30-year-old Syracuse businessman has been found guilty of illegal possession of a handgun at Robert F. Kennedy's funeral.

Gary G. DeDell, vice president and salesman for the Kaufman-DeDell printing service in Syracuse, is to be sentenced Nov. 13. He faces a maximum penalty of a year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

He was arrested June 8 during services for Kennedy at St. Patrick's Cathedral when a detective searching his briefcase found an unloaded Smith-Wesson revolver in a holster in the case.

DeDell pleaded innocent on the grounds he had willingly surrendered the gun and had made several attempts to turn it in to the nearest precinct before attending the services. DeDell has a permit for the gun in Syracuse but has no permit in New York.

Tribute to 4-H Club

Adjusting to change is one of the toughest demands modern society makes on every man, woman and child in the United States. Schools, churches, business, government and civic organizations are all involved because they influence the thoughts and actions of their particular clientele. Today's children's are especially vulnerable. They can be directed on the broad path of consummate understanding or shunted along the narrow byways of prejudice.

For more than a half-century the 4-H Clubs have endeavored to guide the youth of our country through the fourfold program of developing Head, Heart, Hands and Health to better living. In Ulster County, the 4-H has been highly successful.

Organizations like the 4-H Club contribute greatly to a young person's natural desire to express himself. Parents who see a leisure time problem at the root of their offsprings' problems would do well to encourage these young people to take advantage of the opportunities offered by the 4-H program. The boy or girl who is busy with a constructive, purposeful project hasn't the time nor the inclination to get into trouble.

During the current observance of National 4-H Club Week, we take the occasion to congratulate the leaders and members for their outstanding accomplishments.

Balance of Power

The Democratic controlled Senate Preparedness Subcommittee has just released a report charging that the United States, while adequately prepared for the present, is letting the Soviet Union overcome us in developing offensive weapons and defenses for the future.

"Since Hiroshima, our nuclear posture vis-a-vis the Soviet Union has moved progressively from monopoly to massive superiority to exploitable superiority to our present posture of what is at best marginal superiority," the report states.

It concludes, "The hard fact is that if the Soviets increase their defenses, develop MIRV (multiple independently targetable re-entry vehicles) harden their warheads, add penetration aids and increase their accuracy," the Soviet Union could land more accurate and survivable warheads on the U.S. than the U.S. could on Russia.

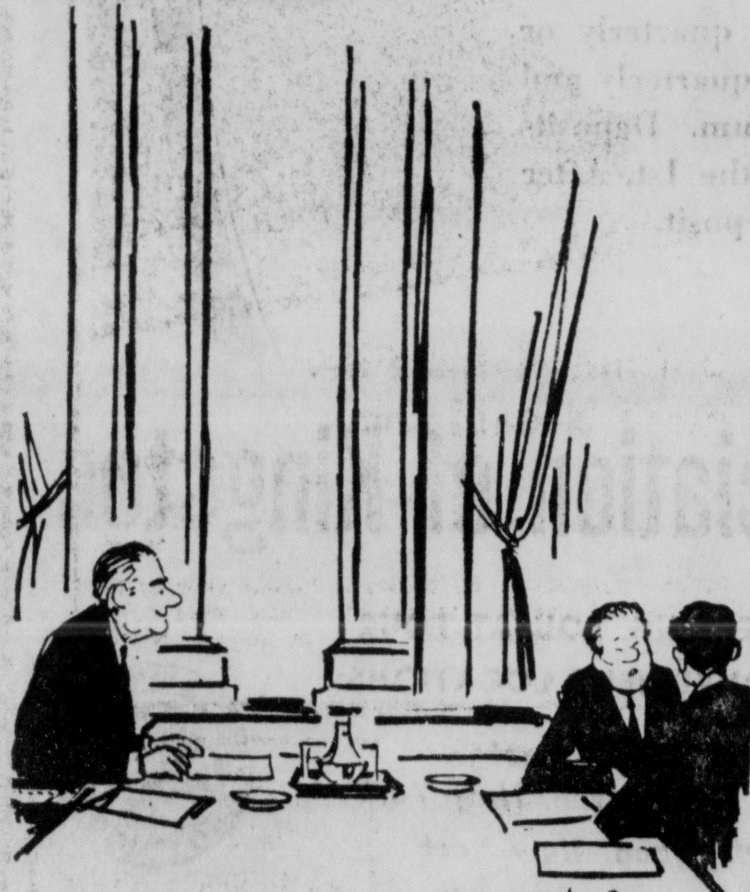

That is a pretty gloomy outlook propounded by a committee that has become a champion of the lost causes of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in the last few years. The committee urges in this report that we go beyond the approved Pentagon program of building a new bomber and accelerating work on an advance ICBM.

The Soviet trend in strategic nuclear weaponry features both a highly sophisticated offense and a defense designed to reduce the damage the U.S. could inflict. They have launched their first Polaris-type nuclear submarine, which threatens targets here. And while they have slowed down their antimissile defenses, they have begun to build them, while we have authorized a mild defense suitable against the less powerful Chinese.

The committee is chaired by Senator John Stennis, a respected authority on preparedness. Because of its source, the findings are bound to be cited in the campaign as upholding the charge that the Administration has not looked ahead to the defenses of the nation in the future.

Just 50 years since their war ended, veterans of World War I showed they were still innovators when they elected a woman as judge advocate, Miss Dorothy Frooks of New York, an attorney. It was the first time that the old soldiers elected a woman among their national officers.

"Mr. Harriman say, if we stop infiltrating, they stop bombing—then we get bats and balls and have a REAL WORLD SERIES!"

The New Pill

David Lawrence Says

Hanoi Believes U.S. Will Abandon Southeast Asia

WASHINGTON — Most people don't realize it, but if the United States announced that it would "unconditionally halt the bombing," this would not mean peace in Vietnam. There has been so much talk about the importance of stopping the bombing that the real objectives of North Vietnam have been lost sight of in America.

Secretary of State Rusk has declared that President Johnson would be willing to order a complete cessation of the bombing if it were a step toward peace, but that there is no reason to believe that it would be. He has called attention to the fact that since March 31 the bombing of four-fifths of North Vietnam, where 90 per cent of the people live, has been halted, while "there is not one square mile in South Vietnam that is free from bombing." Hanoi has not moved any closer to peace.

Just why are the North Vietnamese pursuing this kind of game. They are hoping that the United States and its allies will not only give up bombing the rest of North Vietnam, but will agree to all the Communist insurgents in South Vietnam to assume a major role in the government at Saigon, thus preparing the way for a takeover by the Communist leaders in Hanoi.

But even with a complete halt in the bombing and a concession to permit the "national liberation front" — the political arm of the Viet Cong — to participate in the government of South Vietnam, peace would not be achieved. For North Vietnam has demanded that the United States and its allies withdraw their troops and leave South Vietnam to be governed by a coalition — which, of course, means domination by the Communists of North Vietnam.

Part of the explanation of why the North Vietnamese are holding out so inflexibly was given by Secretary Rusk on the program "Issues and Answers" over the ABC television network on Sunday. He said: "I think the North Vietnamese watch public discussion in this country very closely. They from time to time quote to us the most obscure statements made by somebody in this country. They put great weight on the demonstrators and the signs of dissent in this country."

"If we heard that 50,000 demonstrators were marching around the headquarters in Hanoi calling for peace, we would say the war is over. Now when they hear that 50,000 demonstrators a few months ago were out in front of the Pentagon in Washington, they can be misled, you see. So a part of our problem is to be sure that they understand the basis on which the United States makes decisions, so they do not misunderstand or miscalculate or come to the conclusion that somehow the United States is going to abandon Southeast Asia — because we are not going to abandon Southeast Asia, whoever is elected in November, and Hanoi should understand that and get down to the serious business of making peace."

Mr. Rusk doesn't feel that there is any really substantial difference in objectives between the major political parties in the United States on the subject of the Vietnam war. He made it clear also that he doesn't believe the foreign policy of the United States has been "a partisan affair." He declared:

"I have now had an opportunity to meet with hundreds of committees of Congress and subcommittees in executive session. Not once in my eight years have I seen differences on foreign policy questions divide on party lines."

Analysis of the position of the Hanoi government has been made in news dispatches from time to time throughout Southeast Asia as well as Europe. The general feeling abroad is that North Vietnam is obdurate about making peace because of a belief that the United States sooner or later will abandon the war in Southeast Asia and passively allow South Vietnam to come under the control of the Communists.

The Hanoi government is constantly encouraged by Moscow, which has been supplying billions of dollars worth of armament to North Vietnam.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The retreat is steady. It is a thing unseen, but easily sensed in retrospect. Once, when my father was a police officer, he would take a five-mile walk before Sunday dinner. This month he creeps beyond his 85th birthday and his exhausting walk is from his bedroom to the dining room table. Within the span of thirty feet, he will lean on three pieces of furniture.

Time is its own defeat. He does not feel sorry for himself. He was never much of a guy for extending pity, so he asks for none. Until a few months ago, he kept up a shaky correspondence with an old police buddy, Lieutenant John English. They were the last two men in the parade. Word arrived that "Johnny" had died, so John M. Bishop, Sr. continues the march alone, although the flags no longer snap in a summer breeze, and the band with its martial airs has been stilled for years.

Once he weighed 254. He is now 146. A long time ago the big Irish head was high in the air; today it is bowed even when he is moving from room to room. "I enjoy a good cold beer now and then," he whispers. "It carries me back sixty years clear as a bell."

There is little joy in sitting on the peak alone. The scenes and the lights far below are the same, but a man talks only to the night wind and it responds by moaning in his ear. The rock 'n' roll aboriginal dances bring a tired shake of the head.

He has always had a fear of being trapped. The word means different things to him. For example, it means being afraid to take an automobile ride for fear that the air will become too warm to breathe. It means being caught without a medication and no one available to hurry to the drugstore. It means thinking about a succulent food and finding none in the freezer.

Once he and I sat in crowds of 65,000 watching the Yanks and Giants play ball. We saw Princeton and Cornell play football at Palmer Stadium and we saw Firpo hit Jack Dempsey so hard that the champ went through the ropes and fell on a typewriter. We saw "The Student Prince" and "Faust" so often that we almost memorized the lyrics. We saw. We saw. We saw.

At home, he was a proud and domineering man. All matters fell into categories of right or wrong, and there was nothing between. Once, when I was twelve, he goaded me too much over a trifle and I told him that he was the all time champion grouch. He caught me with a short left and my mother found me under the dining room table.

He had two police revolvers and he kept them locked in a drawer. He told the children if he ever caught us merely fidgeting that drawer, he would whip us with a razor strap until his arm was tired. He loved the Catskill Mountains and classical music. He played b-flat cornet in the Police Band and the Elks Band.

He had a snorting admiration for strong drink and weak women. All his life he took extension courses and he is still studying ecology and 19th century history in his room.

He has no money except a small pension and his Social Security, but he is on a lot of religious sucker lists and sends two dollars to each. He has enrolled himself for about ten thousand masses and if that doesn't get him through the pearly gates the lock is rusted.

The highest compliment he received was when Francis Cardinal Spellman said: "I love to read about you. You're everybody's father, in a way." He likes to "keep busy," so we gave him a project. We took hundreds of old family photos and gave him two albums. "Paste them in according to the chronology of the years," we said. He's been at it three years now, and is still working.

Sometimes he gets grouchy and the dialogue becomes terse. At other times he will sit in a reclining chair and stare for an hour at a blank wall. He sees the old days, the dear faces, the exciting events. I see a wall.

John Bishop realizes that the 85th birthday is a triumphant milestone. His mother made it to 84. His wife reached 73. His mother-in-law died at 78. His father-in-law expired at 83. He is the new champ, just as he always competed in everything — pitching horseshoes, playing boccie, chess, penny-ante poker, checkers, shooting pool.

A long time ago I asked him why he is such a fierce competitor. He turned on the tolerant smile reserved for the retarded. "Some people are lousy losers," he said. "I am also a poor winner." He totters from room to room to ask himself if he has won anything, or perhaps lost is all...

Drew Pearson Says HHH California Campaign Is Woefully Mismanaged

WASHINGTON — When you look at Hubert Humphrey's organization work in the biggest state in the union, California, you can understand why his ratings are so low. In California his handlers put his campaign in the hands of newly elected Democratic National Committeewoman Carmen Warschaw.

She began the campaign by departing abruptly for Europe. There she is right now, and she won't be back until mid-October — too late to do anything. Meanwhile the Humphrey organization in California is a shambles.

Joe Cerrell and Chuck Winter, formerly in charge of the "Citizens for Humphrey" organization, have been relieved. They had conducted one of the most effective registration drives ever staged in California. Democrats in the southern half of the state. Now they are stuck with $30,000 worth of bills from that campaign.

Cerrell and Winter have been replaced by Don O'Brien of Sioux Falls, S. D., who had never been in California and doesn't know the names of political leaders. He is well intentioned but inexperienced. He was one of the managers of Bobby Kennedy's campaign in Nebraska, later served as Sen. George McGovern's floor manager at Chicago. This doesn't necessarily qualify him to run a campaign in California.

As a result, the Vice President's recent trip to California was almost wasted. No real attempt was made to whip up a crowd for him at the Los Angeles airport, and pathetically few people showed up. The next day he spent four hours at Pepperdine College, one of the smallest in Southern California, highly recommended by the John Birch Society. However, it turned down a large bequest from D.B. Lewis, head of Dr. Ross Dug Food and a Birchite, who demanded, in return, that the college give an honorary degree to Robert Welch, head of the John Birch Society. Humphrey gave brief interviews to groups of students, later appeared on KJH, the lowest rated TV station in the area, owned by General Tire and Rubber. He appeared on the "Tempo" program to answer questions from the audience. KJH is now undergoing serious litigation to have its license transferred to another applicant.

Communication Gap
Without visiting two big universities in the area, UCLA and Southern California, Humphrey next flew to Sacramento, where he received a terrific welcome but proceeded to shake outstretched hands rather than use a microphone to address the entire gathering. No one bothered to inform him until the last minute that a microphone and a platform were available.

Meanwhile, Humphrey's headquarters in Southern California has been moved into the Subway Terminal building, which is non-union and which has been bitterly opposed by the AFL-CIO because it is owned by the Harvey Aluminum Company, also non-union. Mrs. Warschaw, the new Democratic National Committeewoman, happens to be the daughter of Leo Harvey.

At the Democratic National convention in Chicago, Mrs. Warschaw turned to Steve Rhineland of the California delegation and remarked: "This convention has been wired, rigged, packed and stacked for Humphrey."

She was the den mother of the coalition which bucked Humphrey in Chicago. She also did her best to wean votes away from Humphrey to Rev. Channing Phillips, Washington, D.C. Negro. The embarrassing fact that Negro delegate votes from California was largely due to her efforts.

After Mrs. Warschaw was put in charge of the Humphrey campaign, Joe Cerrell remarked bitterly: "If the Vice President wants to turn his campaign over to Mrs. Warschaw, I hope she does as good a job for him as she did for Ronald Reagan."

Note: Executives of the Harvey Aluminum Company have been amazingly successful in getting government contracts and favors from both the Eisenhower administration and the Kennedy-Johnson administrations. They have contributed heavily to both political parties.

Decorus Commie Students
Students now demonstrating in the new world from Mexico to New York might find it enlightening how communist countries handle similar demonstrations. They crack down on student extremists more vigorously than did Mayor Richard Daley in Chicago. Behind the red curtain, university education is considered a privilege, not a right.

At the University of Bucharest, typically, there is no sign of long hair, hippie dress or blue jeans. Students are required to wear white shirts with neckties to class. If they don't, they are expelled. There is no argument about it.

They are permitted three absences per term, aside from sickness. If they exceed this, they are expelled. A student who fails, an examination is given only one more chance. If he fails a second time, he is dropped.

In Poland, students who rioted at the Universities of Warsaw and Krakow last March were allowed to carry on for two days. Then the police moved in so effectively that all student demonstrations came to an abrupt halt.

Tactics used by the Students for a Democratic Society at Columbia University, where extremists seized the office of President Grayson Kirk and ransacked his papers, would never be tolerated in communist countries.

In North Vietnam, whose flag some of the demonstrators waved, anyone who dared to demonstrate would be subject to the death penalty.

Wallace: Clash of Extremes

By BRUCE BISSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent
PITTSBURGH (NEA) —

The political meetings of potent third-party candidate George C. Wallace are much more than the self-promoting rallies common to the American scene. They are raw confrontations between the irreconcilables of a troubled society.

He alone among the presidential candidates speaks in language largely stripped of diplomatic camouflage, addressing himself to countless Americans who are filled with anger at rioting and just plain militant blacks, at chanting, placard-bearing, antiwar demonstrators, at nihilistic campus revolutionaries in general.

But as he talks directly and indirectly to his frustrated, growing constituency, he hears more than their clamorous shouts of approval. For his well-advised campaign outings draw the very militants he so harshly assaults, and they chant their sloganized hatred of him endlessly through the long unfolding of his speech.

Often, as at Canton, Ohio, on this big northern swing and at Milwaukee earlier, the atmosphere in the hall is dangerously charged. Serious violence usually is avoided, but it seems to ripple just beneath the surface.

Heated arguments, transformed quickly into bouts of mutual insult and invective, boil up in little eddies in tense crowds which sometimes show a strangely close intermingling of opposing militants. The onlooker waits nervously for the blow to be struck that will touch off an uncontrollable melee, but it never quite comes.

At the courthouse steps in Akron, a mere handful of blacks quietly edged toward the front line of Wallace's listeners massed in the warm morning sun. Suddenly, the competition of hatreds grew bitter in that cramped space.

There was pushing and shoving. A Wallace supporter bellowed: "Leave that woman alone." Wallace himself stopped talking except to say: "It's all right. Let the police handle it." Helmeted officers wedged through the trouble spot, grabbed just the blacks among the disputants and took them away.

At Canton, the anti-Wallace shouters, mostly black as usual on this and other swings, hurled at him their steady cries of: "bigot... fascist... pig... Hitler..."

Looking up at the in their gallery vantage point near the stage, Wallace repeated his customary warning that if "any anarchists" lie down in front of his car "they won't want to do it ever again."

Then, pointing at the arm-waving disrupters, he added: "And if I am elected president, I'm going to come back to Canton, and you just try me."

Moments later the militants began to file out. Wallace, who unlike Vice President Humphrey really never loses his composure under hostile barrage, softly muttered "Good by" into the microphones and, walking to the corner of the stage, blew his detractors a farewell kiss.

Unexpectedly, they did not leave. They moved to the ground floor, headed toward the stage, swung past him in slow step, and thundered their practiced insults. Tension crackled. Wallace, smiling without fail, stood out in front of his transportable bullet-proof lectern, yet tightly screened by Secret Service men. Seconds later, police had moved the demonstrators out of the hall and the danger was gone.

In the Wallace meeting, then, is where the action is. Cause and effect are acted out before the eye. The big internal American struggle takes on vivid content in the political arena. The clashing sounds of opposing extremes seem close together. But they are gravely unharmonious. They echo in a chasm and are worlds apart in the same hall.

Major Propaganda Loss

By DAVID M. NICHOL
BLACKPOOL, England —

The United States has lost a major propaganda battle through its inability to make clear in friendly lands the distinction between Czechoslovakia and Vietnam.

There probably is very little doubt on this score in Prague and in the sullen occupied countryside.

There also is not much doubt among allied governments. But labor and social democratic regimes in particular face an almost implacable hostility on this subject among their rank and file members.

So bitter is the feeling that it almost led to the defeat at the annual labor party conference here of a moderate resolution condemning Soviet aggression in Czechoslovakia and calling for continued support of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization — at least until the Soviets do something specific like withdrawing their occupation forces to restore a climate of trust.

Speaker after speaker attacked the party's national leadership for failing to separate the issues of NATO and Czechoslovakia and for failing to condemn the United States in the same breath.

Foreign Minister Michael Stewart made a reasoned and unemotional defense of the government's position but the leadership statement carried by less than 60 per cent of the conference voting strength.

Stewart managed his awkward task without a single mention of Vietnam.

A second resolution calling for a 50 per cent reduction in Britain's NATO forces in Germany was defeated by the narrow margin of less than 1 per cent.

What the United States has been unable to make clear to the general public in European countries is that it says it is trying to preserve the right of the South Vietnamese to choose their own kind of government, which is actually less than the Czechoslovaks wanted.

No one seems to have drawn the parallel between the successful Soviet imposition of an orthodox Communist regime on the Czechoslovaks and the efforts of Hanoi to work a similar overthrow of a government that does not suit Communist purposes in Saigon.

Nor is there much understanding of the U.S. insistence that it wants no bases in Vietnam and is trying sincerely to find an honorable way out of the present impasse. North Vietnam's negotiators in Paris have a much more receptive audience among Europe's general public than has the United States.

It is not easy at this late stage to say how this might be corrected. That these misconceptions exist and grow and are extremely harmful to U.S. influence and prestige there can be no doubt.

Crime in Streets Today Real Fear of American Citizens

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N.J., Oct. 9 — Much of the strength of the law and order issue in the present political campaign derives from the fear of American citizens to make use of the streets in their own communities at night.

With America's crime rate rising sharply, exactly half of all women in the U.S., an estimated 32 million, say that they are afraid to walk alone at night in areas as close as one mile to where they presently live. In the case of men, one in five shares the same fear.

These fears are not confined to white citizens. An even greater percentage of Negroes say they are afraid to use the streets at night in some of the areas near their dwelling places.

Ten and Twenty Years Ago

Oct. 9, 1948 — Final plans for the funeral of Staff Sergeant Robert H. Dietz were made public this day as the city readied for the arrival the next week of the Kingston Medal of Honor winner.

Almost 6,000 in Kingston did not register for the election this year as the registration spots in the city opened for the final day this morning. A total of 9,544 had been registered up to this morning.

Oct. 9, 1958 — Traffic over the Kingston - Rhinecliff Bridge was reported to be up some 14 per cent over last year. A total of 71,598 vehicles were counted in September.

An apparent attempt to set fire to City School No. 4 was traced to four youths aged 10 and 11. The four were turned over to school authorities by city police.

using the streets at night; for Negroes the percentage is 40 per cent. People living in suburban communities are less afraid than those who dwell in the central cities. Nearly half of those living in center cities (49 per cent), as compared with 31 per cent living in suburban areas, say they share this fear of using the streets at night.

Least concerned about crime in the streets are those who live in communities under 2,500 in population in the nation. In these areas, only 24 per cent feel they cannot make free use of the streets or roads at night in their communities.

The following question was put to a cross-section of nationwide adults so selected as to represent all areas and all communities in proper proportion. The question:

"Is there any area right around here—that is, within a mile—where you would be afraid to walk at night?"

Afraid to Use Streets Within Mile of Home

	Yes	No	Can't Say
National figure	35	62	3

The figures for men and women follow:

	Yes	No	Can't Say
Men	19	79	2
Women	50	47	3

This is the way whites and Negroes answered this question:

	Yes	No	Can't Say
Whites	35	62	3
Negroes	40	59	1

When the findings are examined by city size, the following results come to light:

	Yes	No	Can't Say
1 million & over	42	56	2
1/2 mil.-1 mil.	40	57	3
50 mil.-1/2 mil.	42	53	5
2,500-50,000	33	65	2
Under 2,500	24	74	2
Central cities	49	46	5
Suburban area	31	66	3

By section of the country:

	Yes	No	Can't Say
East	38	60	2
Midwest	30	67	3
South	38	59	3
West	34	64	2

While George Wallace has capitalized on this issue to a greater extent than either Nixon or Humphrey, the pattern of his support does not relate closely to the extent of fear evidenced in different types of communities.

Wallace's strength, for example, is greatest in the rural communities of the country; whereas the greatest fear of crime is expressed by people living in the central cities where his political support is least.

Anti-Corruption Campaign

By GEORGE ANNE GEYER
© 1968 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

SAIGON — Baby step by step, corruption is beginning to go out of style in South Vietnam.

While the new anti-corruption campaign is not performing any miracles, both American and the more honest Vietnamese officials throughout the country say that dramatically new attitudes are beginning to show everywhere.

For one thing, officials are now afraid to be too blatant about their thievery.

For another, in places like the national assembly, eager young men wanting to make a fast name for themselves find it propitious to denounce thievery where they find it.

Mostly, any success that the campaign has had to date is ascribed to the puritanical hand of Prime Minister Tran Van Huong, described by an American official here as "notoriously honest."

Only last week, Huong, a hoary grandpa of 64 who used to ride around town as Mayor of Saigon on a bike, fired his own half-brother, an unheard-of thing in Vietnam where nepotism is next to godliness.

Huong held him responsible for the actions of a subordinate dealing in stolen Japanese autos. And just a couple of weeks before that, President Nguyen Van Thieu got into the swing of things by firing a province chief who was a relative of his wife's.

This week, in a typically labyrinthine, Huong's entire anti-corruption campaign got so complicated that people involved in the anti-corruption drive began going to jail for corruption.

A military field court sentenced five leaders of a youth antifraud organization to three to seven years in prison for selling forged military deferment papers.

Every day the newspapers write of new cases, new convictions, new outrages. But Vietnam has come safely through such sudden spurts of moralism before. Is this simply more of the same? Are the little fish being sacrificed so the big fish can continue business as usual?

While plenty of corruption still exists, it appears very strongly that there is, indeed, a substantive new attitude.

Perhaps most important, the American embassy stands squarely behind Prime Minister Huong. If this government falls, the embassy has told the Vietnamese politicians in no uncertain terms, the United States might very well find it no longer necessary to continue in Vietnam.

This was backed up by outrage in the States over supporting a corrupt and socially callous government and by President Johnson's March 31 speech.

While Huong attacks corruption from a basically moral position, others in the government realize that they simply have to clean up or the game literally is up.

In the three months since Huong took office, some notable changes have taken place. Twenty five of 44 province chiefs have been removed from office.

This sort of thing has been done before, but this time not one of the 25 has yet showed up in a higher position. Most are awaiting prosecution.

The province chiefs have been taken out from under the control of the corps commanders, to whom they passed the money that they collected on lower levels, and are now under the ministry of the interior, thus eliminating one well-traveled channel for graft.

Officials who have been around Vietnam for a long time, and who have seen idealists like Huong come and go, are skeptical. They point out that the Minister of the interior is of questionable reputation, as is the major of Saigon, and that at least one notoriously corrupt former corps commander is now a personal aide of the President's.

Presidential Race in 13-State Southern Area in State of Flux

By DAVID MURRAY
(Chicago Sun-Times Special)

SPARTANBURG, S.C. — In much of the 13 state southern triangle, with its corners of Virginia, Florida and Texas, the presidential race is in a state of flux.

George C. Wallace, the third party candidate, may take six states in the region.

But most southern political experts whom I talked with in three days of campaigning with Richard M. Nixon, the Republican nominee, believed only four or five were sure things, polls to the contrary.

In addition, in none of the seven other states does Nixon enjoy a lead so commanding that he can be sure of it.

In the week, the experts say, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has been showing strength if he can put together the political machinery, he may be able to tap the vast cash register of silent Democrats, many of them Negroes and edge out Wallace and Nixon.

The four sure Wallace states, according to the experts and they include Nixon aides who make the concession privately, are Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi. He is leading in Georgia and North Carolina and probably will take South Carolina.

In five states — Florida, Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia — Nixon is leading. And one has to throw in Texas right now, but Nixon staffers and others believe President Johnson may make a last-ditch effort to win the state for the Democrats.

Nixon's chances are rated 50-50 in Kentucky and West Virginia. In Tennessee and South Carolina, no one is ready to call it; but Nixon circles are beginning to write off South Carolina.

This is the picture that emerges:

Virginia, Florida and Texas: These states at the corners of the triangle, locked into the north or into the west because of geography or economics, have tended to have close elections although not necessarily voting for the winner.

Virginia is now rated Nixon country, but when one starts breaking down its voters, Humphrey's chances may be better than they are currently regarded.

There are 1,200,000 registered voters in Virginia. Some 200,000 of these are Negroes, who could easily be induced by the Democrats to vote against George Wallace.

In addition, some believe that there are also 150,000 to 200,000 silent Democrats, who in recent weeks may have been making some noise about Wallace but who, when the chips are down and if the precinct activity is there, may vote for Humphrey.

Florida is also a noisy Wallace state. Indeed, Wallace may split about two-thirds of the votes with Nixon.

But in Florida, as in Virginia, if Nixon and Wallace split the votes, Humphrey is within shouting distance, although again with the same provision — can he turn out the vote?

Kentucky, Tennessee and West Virginia: Tennessee is said to be a tossup between Nixon and Humphrey. In the next four weeks, the state will be a major battleground. Last week Humphrey drev big crowds in Nashville, Knoxville and the University of Tennessee. Besides Gov. Buford Ellington, an influential Democrat, is exhorting his party to get out and work.

But Nixon's campaign is excellent and Humphrey will have to mount a titanic fight to stop the Republican momentum.

Kentucky, although strongly Democratic, has a Wallace flavor to it. But Gov. Louis Nunn, a Republican conservative, segregation-minded voters, could bring many Wallace supporters into the Nixon column. It's early, but right now Nixon's chances are good.

West Virginia in 1960 defeated Humphrey in a bitter primary battle. But Humphrey enjoys a residue of support and is still a familiar and sympathetic figure; and voters tend to love the one they hurt.

Moreover, some democratic state candidates, such as John D. Rockefeller IV, a candidate for Secretary of State, are immensely popular and could pull the Democratic national ticket through.

Wallace Strength Will Be Pivotal in Florida Vote

By BARBARA FRYE
TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI)—George Wallace may not win Florida's 14 electoral votes for President, but his strength is going to be a major factor in determining who does carry the state.

Richard M. Nixon is given the edge now, with Wallace a close second.

But Democrats, who don't even claim that Hubert H. Humphrey is the popular choice in the state, are counting on Wallace to neutralize the conservative more sufficiently to push Florida into the Humphrey column.

This is what happened in 1948 when States Rights candidate Strom Thurmond took enough votes away from Republican Tom Dewey to give Harry Truman a plurality of 48.8 per cent.

Republicans, on the other hand, are betting that conservatives who like what Wallace is saying about law and order, but don't think he can win the White House, will switch to Nixon in the voting booth.

Hard-core Wallace men, pointing to 25,000 supporters who turned out in Tallahassee, Orlando and Daytona Beach recently to hear the former Alabama governor, pooh-pooh these claims of defection. They confidently predict Wallace will pocket Florida's electoral votes Nov. 5.

No small factor in the forecast of a Nixon victory is GOP congressman Edward Gurney who even some Democrats think will outrun Nixon in Florida to become the state's first Republican U.S. senator since reconstruction days following the Civil War.

Gurney's opponent is LeRoy Collins, one of the most popular Democratic governors in Florida history when he served a decade ago. But his role since then as a civil rights mediator for President Johnson has become a potent issue against him.

Collins, in turn, pictures Gurney as a "war hungry" candidate who would join the "super-hawks" who want this country to invade North Vietnam.

The general unpopularity of the entire Johnson administration, based on violence, Vietnam and inflation, are also major issues in several congressional races where Republicans are flailing Democratic incumbents on the "time for a change" theme.

There is a good chance that two of the present nine Democratic seats in Congress could tumble into Republican hands.

Even in Florida where, it is said, the people vote their pocketbooks first and conservatism second, law and order is the overriding issue.

Saugerties, Ellenville Village Receive Annual State Pure Water Grants

The Villages of Saugerties and Ellenville this week received their annual pure waters program grants for maintenance of existing sewer treatment facilities.

The Village of Saugerties was awarded $2,609.66 for maintenance of its plants on Dublin, East Bridge and Ripley Streets. Ellenville was awarded $8,555.39 for the operation of its sewage disposal plant. Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller announced today the approval of 17 pure waters program grants totalling $186,499 for operation and maintenance of approved water pollution control treatment plants in 11 counties of the state. This brings to 713 the number of operation and maintenance grants approved at a cost of $23,459,994 since the program began. Pure waters program grants are provided under the direction of the State Health Department.

The state makes annual grants on a municipal fiscal year basis of one-third the direct cost of operating and maintaining municipal sewage treatment plants that meet state standards, the governor said. This gives substantial encouragement to municipalities to maintain high standards of waste treatment, he concluded.

Legion's Youth Aid Told

Speaking at the American Legion 50th anniversary celebration dinner sponsored at the Governor Clinton Hotel by Kingston Post 150, recently, Daniel J. O'Connor, chairman of the national Americanism Committee, said the organization spends more than $2,500,000 each year for the promotion of youth programs.

O'Connor, guest speaker at the dinner attended by more than 300 legionnaires and friends, O'Connor said that the $2 1/2 million is spent for activities in baseball, basketball, events, Boy Scouts, Boys State, and Boys Nation and Child Welfare.

50-Year Members Honored

The speaker at the event, which was highlighted by the presentation of 50-year gold membership buttons, commented that too many American youths have disrespect for authority and in some cases there appears to be a void between youth and their parents.

O'Connor recalled that the American Legion had legislation enacted by the 50th anniversary of President Johnson on July 3, 1968, making it a crime to disrespect the American flag. He also told his listeners that the American Legion is presently working on legislation to bar Communists from being employed in defense plants or in Civil Service positions.

Commenting on the hippies situation, O'Connor expressed the belief that the answer to controlling hipies is not for this generation of World War I and World War II, but it is for the young people, especially college students, to regulate and organize themselves to follow and be guided by the rules and regulations of colleges, schools and the community.

The speaker also said that it is his belief that outside groups touched off the recent disturbances at various colleges, and not the students themselves.

Col. Hamilton Fish Jr. related the history of the preparation and writing of the Preamble to the American Legion Constitution. Colonel John Greenwood and Judge George Davis wrote the preamble.

Reviews Post History

Conrad J. Heiselman, former Kingston mayor and a past commander of Kingston Post 150, presided as master of ceremonies at the event, and reviewed the past history of the Post. There were many requests made for a further review of the post's history at a later date.

The National Anthem was sung by Richard P. Scherer, who led those at the dinner in singing many of the popular World War I songs. Harry Matseider was piano accompanist for the singing.

Eugene Freer, past post commander, read the Preamble of the American Legion constitution.

Post Commander Everett Enmick and Thomas Bohan, past department vice commander, presented the 50-year buttons to:

Those Honored

John A. Weaver, J. Watson Wheeler, Rufus V. E. Whitney, Dr. Sidney Wolff, A. Theodore Young, Mrs. A. Theodore Young, L. S. Miller and Edward J. Noble.

Those 50-year legionnaires who were unable to attend the dinner will receive their gold buttons at a later date.

Mayor Raymond W. Carragher, a speaker at the dinner, congratulated the 50-year men and women.

The program concluded with a memorial conducted in memory of departed members.

Heart Disease To Be Topic at Albany Medical

The latest concepts of coronary heart disease will be the subject of a physicians' teaching day at Albany Medical Center's Huyck Auditorium on Oct. 17, beginning at 9 a.m.

Physicians in Kingston and the surrounding area have been invited to the special teaching program which is co-sponsored by the Albany Medical College department of postgraduate medicine and the American College of Cardiology.

Included in the guest faculty and participating in the teaching program are Dr. E. Cuyler Hammond, director of the statistical research section of the American Cancer Society; Dr.

Thomas N. James, professor of medicine at the University of Alabama Medical Center; Dr. Maurice McGregor, professor of medicine and dean of the faculty of medicine at McGill University and Dr. Donald N. Summers, assistant professor of medicine at the State University of New York Downstate Medical Center in Brooklyn.

At the conclusion of the program, Dr. Stuart Bondurant, professor and chairman of the department of medicine at Albany Medical College, will moderate a panel discussion on therapy.

Immunization Clinic

A clinic for immunizations against polio, whooping cough, diphtheria, tetanus, and smallpox will be conducted by the Ulster County Health Department at the Tumor Clinic building at 400 Broadway on Oct. 18 from 10:30 a.m. to 11:15 a.m. Immunizations for whooping cough, diphtheria, and tetanus should be started at three months of age, smallpox vaccinations should be given sometime during the first year of life, and polio immunizations should be started from three to six months of age.

These clinics serve those who are referred by their physicians or those who are otherwise unable to secure these immunizations.

Senate Shuns Vote On Nuclear Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders have decided not to bring the nuclear nonproliferation treaty to a vote in this session of Congress, informed sources say.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield has not made a public announcement, but he is said to have abandoned any possibility of seeking ratification this year. The treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons has been increasing trouble in the Senate since the Soviet Union invaded Czechoslovakia in mid-August.

The pact suffered another major setback Tuesday when Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., whose views on military matters carry great weight with many senators, announced he opposes action on the treaty at this time.

"It has no inspection provisions worthy of the name," Russell said. "It would not protect us at all."

While several senators have advocated delay because of the Soviet intervention in Central Europe, Russell's objections to the terms of the treaty itself could signal long-range difficulties in obtaining Senate approval when the new session of Congress opens next January.

"I am opposed to acting on it until there can be further investigation of its terms," Russell said.

Nuclear nations signing the treaty pledge they will not transfer nuclear weapons or the guards to see that nonnuclear states do not make weapons out of atomic material and equipment given for peaceful use. Nonnuclear countries signing the treaty would be expected to negotiate agreements with the agency on inspection procedures within their respective borders. No provision is made for inspection within the nuclear powers.

City Man Gets 60-Day Sentence

Andrew Ramage, 20, of Furnace Street, charged with promoting prison contraband in connection with an attempt to smuggle a pint of rye whiskey into the county jail on Sept. 14, was sentenced to 60 days in county jail Monday afternoon when he appeared before Town of Ulster Justice Sherwood Davis.

The Sheriff's Department report noted that Sgt. Fred Brinkman caught Ramage in the act of lowering a bottle of rye whiskey on a cord from the outside to one of the inmates. The whiskey was in a paper bag.

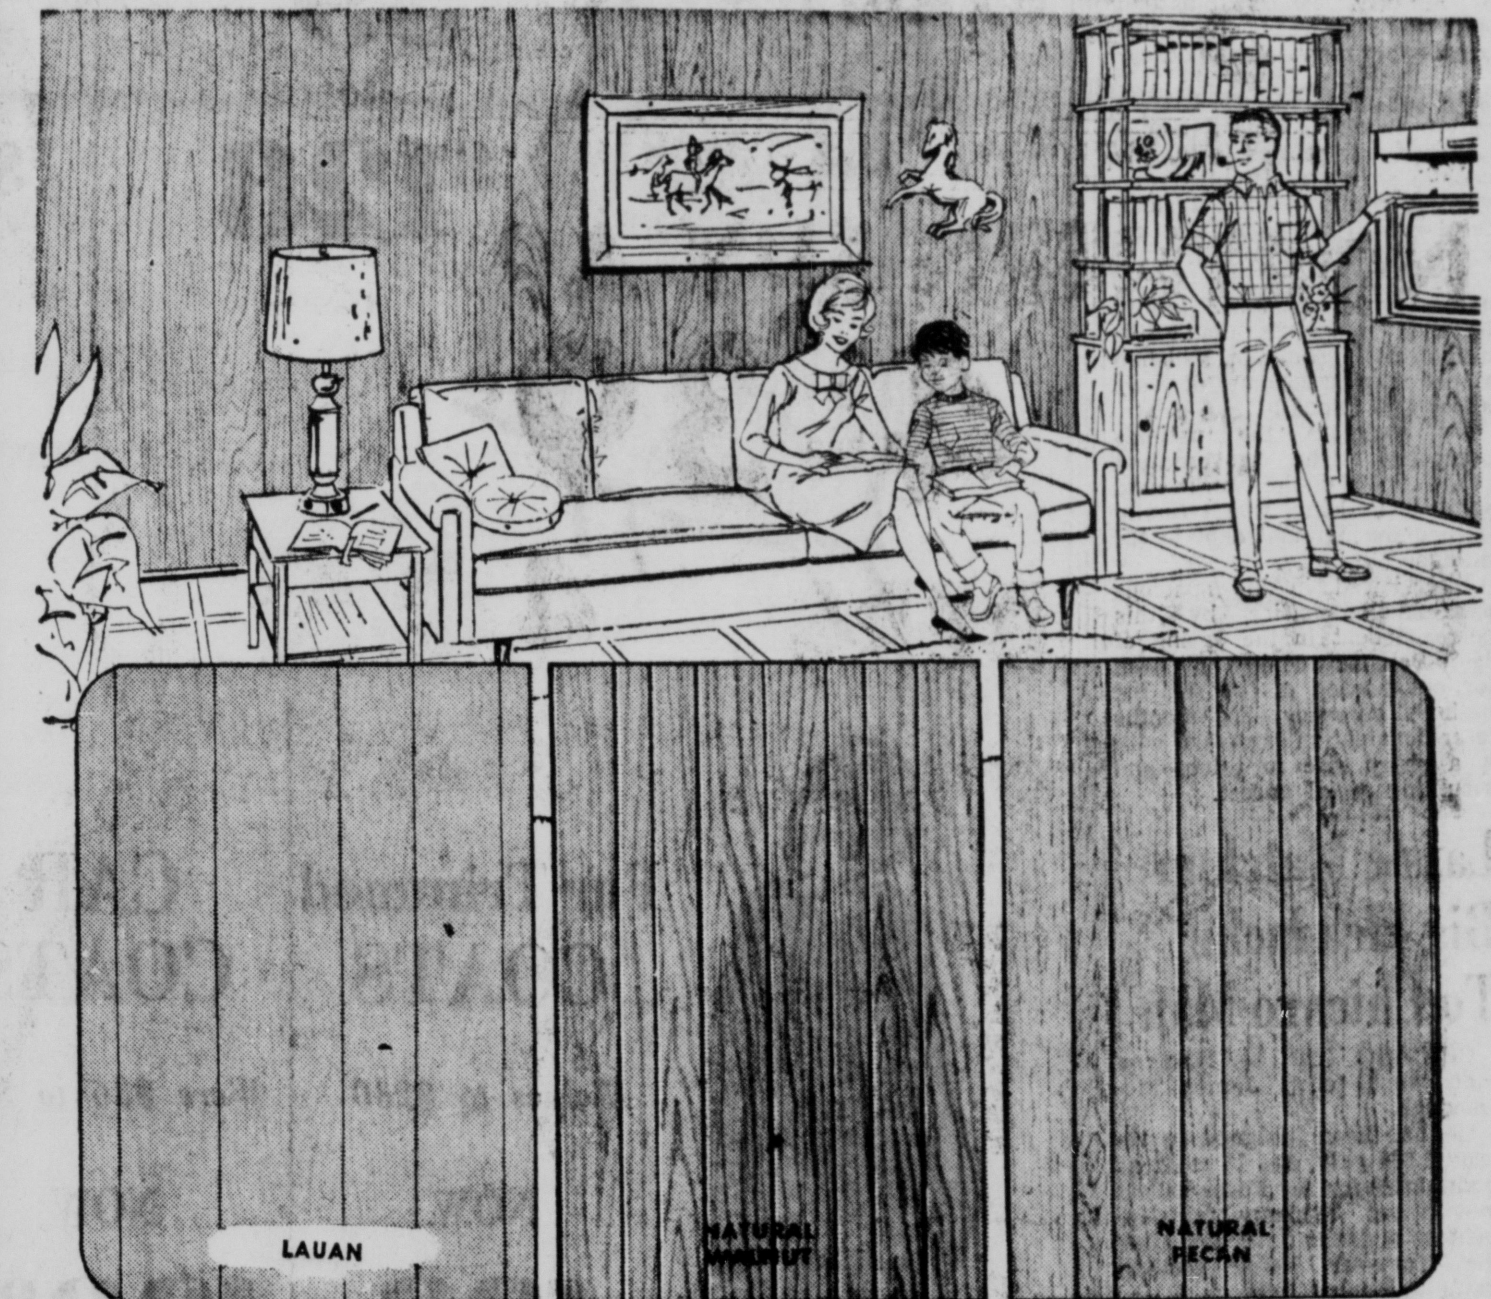

In another case, Ramage entered a guilty plea in City Court on Friday on a charge of criminal trespassing on railroad property and glue sniffing. He and another youth were ordered by City Judge Hubert A. Richter to comply with the 11 p.m. curfew and Oct. 19 was set for sentencing. Both were arrested by city police on Sept. 30. The other youth is Louis C. Hasbrouck, 18, of Hooker Street.

Nixon Has No Magic Formula for Ending War

By LOUIS CASSELS
WITH NIXON CAMPAIGN
(UPI)—When he is elected president—in his mind there is no longer any "if" about it—Richard M. Nixon says he will devote all of his formidable energy to ending the war in Vietnam.

He believes it can be done in less than a year, perhaps in five or six months. But he will make no campaign promises that if, for example, he knows that the new president is publicly the committed to stopping the war by a certain date the enemy can exact concessions in the peace negotiations merely by stalling for time. Nixon's off-the-platform views about Vietnam, the current election campaign and several other topics were communicated to this reporter during a long and relaxed conversation aboard his campaign plane, the Tricia, as he made a jet-age barnstorming tour of the Deep South.

Notes Changing Situation
The Republican presidential candidate has no magic formula, no secret plan, for bringing the war to an honorable end. He intends to employ whatever diplomatic strategy seems most likely to yield results in the circumstances prevailing at the time. His reluctance to talk now about such specific measures as a bombing halt, while doubtless prompted in part by political prudence, also reflects his conviction that circumstances may change so greatly before the new administration takes over next January, that it is foolish to make a strategy commitment now.

Nixon will give top priority to ending the war because he is satisfied that there can be no real progress toward solution of this country's urgent domestic and international problems until its costly, divisive involvement in Vietnam is honorably liquidated. But in private conversation, as in public speeches, he bears down hard on the word "honorably." We cannot simply pull out of Vietnam, he says, however tempting that easy out may appear. He is determined to hold out for a viable peace settlement that can avert the need of a new American intervention within a few years.

Relaxed, Rested Campaigner
Nixon was relaxed and amiable throughout our talk in his private compartment of the chartered jet. For a man in the middle of a gruelling election campaign, he seemed remarkably rested and free of tension, as an underdog, right up to Nov. 5. This poise is something he's worked hard to achieve—it's part of the "new Nixon"—but it also stems from his confidence that he has this election won. He is so certain of victory that he doesn't talk like a candidate, even in private. He talks like a president-elect.

He hasn't forgotten 1948, when Republican candidate Thomas E. Dewey, way out in front in all of the polls, managed to "snatch defeat from the jaws of victory," but Nixon assures you that nothing is being taken for granted. He is going to pour on the coal, campaigning as hard as an underdog, right up to Nov. 5. Having been himself written off as a political corpse on several occasions, Nixon is not about to proclaim Hubert H. Humphrey "dead" so far as this campaign is concerned. He expects to see the Democratic candidate gain several percentage points in the drift back to the party ticket. But in Nixon's seasoned political judgment, it would take a "big event"—something comparable to a peace settlement in Vietnam—to give Humphrey any chance at all of winning.

Wallace Causes Concern
Third party candidate George Wallace is causing Nixon concern. He doesn't think John Comstock and Charles Small. Both teams posted a winning score of 58. Third with a 54 per cent game were Ted Kraut and Michael Korol. A 53 per cent game by Jim Naccarato and Kim Sargent took the fourth place in recent competition.

Healing the bitter divisions which have developed between races, regions, generations and income groups is second only to ending the Vietnam war on Nixon's list of priorities. He slaps his leg with a loud smack when he says, with emotion, that the next president has simply got to bring this country together.

Ulster Bridge Club Results

A tie for first place resulted between the teams of Fred Stern and Robert Wiley and Dr. John Comstock and Charles Small. Both teams posted a winning score of 58. Third with a 54 per cent game were Ted Kraut and Michael Korol. A 53 per cent game by Jim Naccarato and Kim Sargent took the fourth place in recent competition. A special Columbus Day game will be held this Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Arnold's Restaurant. Door prizes will be an added feature. The club invites area bridge devotees to attend.

Little Things Did It

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
During a little more than five years in office, urbane and imaginative President Fernando Belaunde Terry of Peru was a man who thought "big."

Big in terms of a $215 million highway opening up the jungles east of the Andes, of huge hydro-electric projects, of irrigation to more than quadruple Peru's arable land. It was the "little" things that finally got him, mounting inflation, a declining world market for fishmeal, rising unemployment and finally a compromise settlement of a long-standing dispute over oil which nationalists charged sold out Peruvian interests.

Another Exile
At 2:30 in the morning of Oct. 3, the Peruvian military roused him from his bed and sent him off to exile in Argentina. And another freely elected Latin American president had failed to finish out his term.

The agreement which toppled Belaunde concerned the $180 million International Petroleum Company, a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey, and a dispute going back to the last century. Peruvian nationalists long had demanded expropriation of the company. Two months ago, Belaunde reached agreement for the return of the rich Brea-Parinas oil fields. But the nationalists exploded when it was learned the agreement also cancelled a $50 million claim on back taxes and granted new exploration and development rights.

The oil dispute, however, only supplied the excuse for action by military leaders impatient with the progress of Peru's latest experiment in democracy.

Problems Unsolved
An opposition congress intent only upon discrediting Belaunde had played politics with the country's future. Problems involving vitally needed agricultural, industrial and tax reforms remained unsolved.

Peru, blessed with great natural riches and family fortunes of more than $100 million not uncommon, still had a per capita income of only about $300 annually. To maintain the nation's prosperity, the government relied upon public works and short term loans which finally pushed the national debt to $20 million.

Interviewed in his spacious dark-paneled office by this correspondent in the spring of 1967, Belaunde denied any need for devaluation of the sol, the nation's currency. Six months later devaluation came and with it a sharp rise in prices and mounting social unrest.

Lassie Matchup Big Headache To Chicago Man

CHICAGO (AP) — Many a man would envy James McDonough.

He has been assigned to recruit 1,800 girls, age 18 to 22, as blind dates for Air Force cadets and Naval Academy midshipmen at a dance Saturday after the Navy-Air Force football game in Soldier Field.

But for McDonough, city commissioner of streets and sanitation, it's a big headache. He was given less than two weeks to sign up the lasses.

The last time girls and academy men were matched after the game was in 1965, when 5,000 females applied to be dates for 2,000 males.

The lucky 1,800 girls—who must be high school graduates—will be allocated to the men according to lists provided by the academies.

And, true to military form, they'll be matched with the men by the number. "They're given the name of their date—he's in Squadron 10, No. 7," said McDonough, who was appointed date-recruiter by Mayor Richard J. Daley.

"But they tell me that only lasts for a while," he added. "Then the guys start grabbing the best looking girl that comes along, and running."

Some 800 girls showed up Monday night for interviews with the screening committee in a normally masculine stronghold, the City Council chambers. Another session was scheduled for Tuesday.

Dwelling Fires Took 6,500 Lives In Past Year

Fire can happen to you, that's right, you. This very year on the basis of national averages, a home in your neighborhood will be involved in fire, according to Captain Hugh Greer of the Kingston Fire Prevention Bureau.

In 1967, 12,200 lives were lost from fire, 6,500 of them in dwelling fires.

Fires and fire deaths occur when the simple rules of safety are violated. Some of these violations are: smoking in bed, leaving children alone in the home, children playing with matches, storage of flammable liquids in glass or other improper containers and the storage of large amounts of combustibles primarily in attics and cellars.

You can prevent this useless loss of life and property by: never smoking in bed, making sure all cigarettes and matches are out, having responsible babysitters with your children, teaching your children not to play with matches, storing flammable liquids in approved metal safety cans and preferably in the garage or other outside building, and by periodically removing all unused or unwanted combustibles from the home. Keep your heating units clean and use only proper fuses.

Help your Fire Fighters to help you.

Out of the Woods

LARKSPUR, Colo. (AP) — Rampart College, operating nearly 11 years in foothills of mountains northeast of Colorado Springs, sold its entire plant to a church organization for use as a juvenile home.

Robert LeFerne, president of the college, commented, "it became apparent that we had to get out of the woods and into the market place, in order to attract students."

Purchase Arms

MUNICH, Germany (UPI)—Finance Minister Franz Josef Strauss proposed Monday night that West Germany annually buy $250 million in U.S. arms to offset America's balance of payments loss from stationing American troops in Europe. Strauss said stationing of U.S. troops in West Germany was a factor not only of West German security, but for all of Europe.

Law Violation Charged to Man

While investigating a report of an abandoned automobile Monday afternoon, Troopers R. G. Sprague and F. T. Koniszewski of Leeds, spotted a good-sized deer hanging in the cellar of the home of William John Willis, 36, at Earlton, as the officers looked in a window.

Willis was later picked up and charged with illegal possession of a deer, a violation of the State Conservation Law.

Taken before Catskill Town Justice George Carl, Willis was permitted to pay $200 in civil compromise with the consent of Game Protector Ray Miller. The deer was confiscated.

Troopers resumed investigation of the abandoned car report.

Spaghetti Supper

Ulster Hose Company will hold a spaghetti supper Saturday, Oct. 12, from 5 to 8 p. m. at the Albany Avenue firehouse. The proceeds will go toward support of the Ulster County Volunteer Fire Association Convention.

Plans Are Set For Luncheon of Health Group

Plans were discussed for the annual fall luncheon of the Ulster County Health Committee's President's Group at the organization's recent meeting in the office of Miss Helen Geneis, Supervisor of Public Health Nurses.

The luncheon is scheduled to be held in the Crystal Room of the Gov. Clinton Hotel Oct. 28. The Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool of the Old Dutch Church in Kingston has been invited.

Get the Color TV with the works in a drawer.

The works in a drawer: 10 tubeless solid-state mini-circuits for solid dependability. Quasar is Color TV that stays at home working, not in the repair shop.

The solid-state mini-circuit. It plugs in in your home in minutes.

Have you been a color TV holdout? A little afraid of all the service problems? Hold out no more. Look into Quasar... color TV with the works in a drawer.

Just what is it that's made Quasar worth waiting for? (Other than a beautiful picture, great color and style?) Two important things. The dependability of solid state electronics. And fast, at-home service you can only get when the works are in a drawer.

In Quasar, most components except the rectifier and picture tube are solid-state. They're tubeless mini-circuits... designed to work without burning themselves out. They plug in in minutes, if service is ever needed.

A serviceman simply opens the drawer at the front of the set. Snaps in a replacement circuit. Closes the drawer. And that's it. You might lose a few innings of viewing, but not much more. In most cases service is handled in your home, not the shop.

So, why look for another excuse? Go to your Motorola dealer and look into Quasar instead. We're so impressed with Quasar reliability, we've guaranteed it (everything, picture tube and chassis parts) for two years.

Bet you'll be impressed, too.

Two Year Registered Guarantee on Picture Tube and All Parts
Original owner guarantee covers free exchange or repair of parts proven defective in normal use. Arranged through selling dealers. Labor and transportation extra. Guarantee not valid unless guarantee card mailed to Motorola within ten days after delivery of set.

EXTRA! New Motorola Electronic Remote Control! Remarkable and unique. Solid state! Solid reliability! Silent color and sound control! See it!

Rondout Moves District Office To Middle School

The Rondout Valley Central School District Office, formerly located in High Falls, has moved to the second floor of the Rondout Valley Middle School.

The new quarters are occupied by all members of the district office staff.

The former district office telephone numbers are no longer operative. Persons visiting the district office should park in the rear parking lot and enter through the side entrance to the Middle School.

Improvement of community relations will be taken up by the Board of Education at its October meeting which will be held in the Middle School at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, Oct. 15. Also featured will be curriculum capsule on the upcoming Senior Forum at Rondout Valley High School.

The Rondout board has been advised by the Rondout Valley Insurance Agents Committee that the school has been awarded a high number of experience credits due to the improved safe operation of the school system.

John P. Hall, chairman of the committee, commended the board and its administration for interest in safety and accident prevention, which has resulted in lower insurance costs for the district.

Because of its relatively low accident ratio, the school re-

Arrested After Reporting Theft

Bernard F. Meier, 41, of 240 Albany Avenue, walked into Kingston police headquarters late Tuesday afternoon and reported his 1961 car had been stolen from the Kingston Hospital parking lot.

Meier's complaint was noted by police, and then he was arrested on two warrants charging him with issuing fraudulent checks. After being booked, the man was committed until a $50 bail was posted. The case was referred to City court for arraignment before Judge Hubert A. Richter.

Accord Tour

Jack Van Newkirk, center, points out features of his historic house for visitors, Mr. and Mrs. A.M. Pfister of Ridgewood, N.J., during 12th annual stone house festivities in Accord Saturday. The house tours were sponsored by the Rochester Reformed Church and featured six area residences on the route. Another popular aspect of the day's festivities was a country store at the church grounds offering paintings, homebaked goodies and produce from farms in the vicinity. In addition to the Van Newkirk house, other residences open to the public included the homes of Mrs. Howard Sykes, Mrs. Leo Gazlay, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Knapp, Dr. and Mrs. Sidney Bell, and Mrs. and Mrs. Charles Parmalee. Water Source for County On Agenda for Legislature

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

A proposal with far-reaching consequences — a future water source for the county — will be on the agenda of the County Legislature Thursday 8 p.m. at the county office building.

The resolution under study and introduced by County Chairman Peter J. Savago, would petition Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller to include the county in the state's study for eventual use of the Hudson River as a source of water supply.

The county asks representation on any committee or task force named to be responsible for consideration and implementation of the City of New York-Westchester County plan to tap the Hudson River at Hyde Park.

The State Health Department has a comprehensive public water supply study for the two political subdivisions which calls for the development of facilities for withdrawal of 1,000 million gallons of water per day from the Hudson River.

Preparation is being made for the proposal to be placed on the State Legislature agenda early in 1969.

Another proposal asks for a study on the possibility of creating a County Senior Citizens Housing Authority and/or a County Low Income Housing Authority.

Also on the agenda will be a proposal for setting up a priority list of new services, projects and program and expansion of existing ones as the need arises. The proposal calls for the appointment of a committee to set up this priority list after thorough study. The committee would be responsible for an annual report to the County Legislature.

Other resolutions call for the reappointment of members to the Airport Commission and the County Planning Board.

Programs for Boy Scouts

By SHANE CROSBY
Boy Scouts of the Rip Van Winkle Council in Ulster and Greene Counties now find themselves involved in activities that range from cooking to computer operation. The addition of the modern computer equipment is just one of the many new programs open to boy scouts, according to council director Alexander MacDonald. In a new program called Explorer, Special Interest more than 100 boys from the area are involved in three special fields that could lead to a career. One is held at the International Business Machines office in Kingston where boys are given instruction on the operation of computers and related equipment. Another is with the New York Telephone Company where they study and work in the communications field. The third now underway is with the Ulster County Medical Association where the healing sciences are applied.

"It's not just tours," said MacDonald, "they roll up their sleeves and get right down to work." The program is being expanded for next year, he said. Eventually it could involve the range of business and science operations.

"They meet just like a regular troop would," he said. "In this case they would be involved in the meet around the specialty they have selected."

Boys from 8 to 18 participate, and some seven year-olds if qualified. Many stay with scouting all the way through according to MacDonald. "We have that as our goal," he added.

In the Community Chest area alone, he said, there are more than 2,000 boys in scouting. They are assisted by as many as 1,600 adults who serve as leaders, assistant leaders and just volunteers.

To expand the Boy Scouting program is the major goal of the council. They are joining with the national organization in an eight-year-long drive to begin in January. "Boyscouts '76" has a goal of reaching some 6,500,000 boys across the country. This would be more than 1/3 of the eligible boys.

Now there is about every one in four boys in the scouting programs.

This would be a gain of more than 51.5 per cent over last year, and almost double the national rate in the last decade.

The council's activities in most of Ulster County are supported to a large extent by the contributions made to the Ulster County Community Chest. The Chest "Winning Beat" Fund Drive now underway goes not only for the council, but to 13 other worthwhile agencies that serve more than two out of every three persons in the chest area.

Scouting activities serve not only as a gathering point for the boys, said MacDonald. "It's an education as well." Boys see many things they would not become involved in if left on their own.

Outdoor activities take up much of the work of the more than 3,500 scouts in the council. In addition to sending representatives to National Jamboree, the council sends boys to the Philmont Scout Ranch in Cimarron, N.M. Boys also take year-round advantage of the council's own camp, Camp Tri-Mount.

The camp, located in Greene County, offers the boys more than 525 acres of countryside. In addition to the summer camps at the Greene County site, he said, "fall, winter and spring; a weekend isn't passed that doesn't have some troop camping out."

Next year the council plans to send 37 boys to the National Jamboree. The conclave will

Happiness

Some children find happiness easily. Others need the help and guidance only a trained person can provide, medical attention they cannot afford, love they have been denied. For many boys, the Rip Van Winkle Council of the Boy Scouts of America serves not only as a "club of boys" but as a place where they can learn many of the things the country has to offer. Trips to Camp Tri-Mount, camporees, weekend local camps, and many other outdoor activities offer experiences most boys would go without if left alone. Twenty-seven million families benefit from child care, family service, youth guidance, health programs, disaster relief and services for the Armed Forces personnel from more than 31,000 agencies throughout the country. In Ulster County more than two out of every three persons benefit in a direct way from the 14 agencies of the Ulster County Community Chest. The "Winning Beat" of the Chest campaign is nearing the end of another year's drive. This year the goal is $345,000. "If you haven't already given," says drive chairman William Pearson, "make an effort to contact the solicitor where you work" and give to help them help.

Warn Soviets

TOKYO (UPI)—The head of Japan's defense agency said today his nation should warn the Soviet Union against further bomber flights over Japan.

Kaneshichi Masuda said two Soviet TU92 bombers flew over Kyushu in southern Japan on July 22 and Sept. 17. He described the flights as "actions which should not be taken by a friendly country."

Don't Be Loser to Cancer, Legacy of Former Video DA

William Talman, who appeared as the district attorney on the "Perry Mason" show, knew that he had incurable lung cancer before he died Aug. 30, and he arranged a special legacy—a personal TV message now released by the American Cancer Society. It was reported today by Dr. Harri H. Janssen, president of the Society's Ulster County Unit.

Talman, a three-pack-a-day cigarette smoker for all of his adult life, asked the Society to produce the one-minute TV spot and he explained, "Before I die I want to do what I can to leave a world free of cancer for my six children."

The result is a direct statement from a man familiar to millions as a tough fighter who didn't quit easily although he always lost to Perry Mason.

Talman says in the TV spot, "You know, I didn't really mind losing those courtroom battles. But I'm in a battle right now I don't want to lose at all because if I lose it means losing my wife and those kids you just met. I've got lung cancer."

"So take my advice about smoking and losing from someone who's been doing both for years. If you haven't smoked—don't start. If you do smoke—quit. Don't be a loser."

Talman also made a special short film to be shown to American Cancer Society volunteers for the April 1969 Crusade. He calls them, "When I was a kid, my dad offered me $1.00 and a gold watch if I would get to the age of 21 without smoking a cigarette. I lost that case before I was 12. Of all the cases in my whole life, that I've lost, of all the bets I've lost, of all the chances I've blown, that one I regret the most today . . ."

Noting that his life was being sustained by medical advances "made possible because 20 or 30 years ago people whose names I'll never know contributed money to the American Cancer Society . . ." he says, "Let me join you in spirit, in prayer, even if I'm gone when you see me speak these words to you. Let me join you in this Crusade and let's make this world a world that is cancer free."

7 Motorists Are Summoned

Kingston police on Monday summoned seven motorists to appear before City Judge Hubert A. Richter to face charges of having no inspection certificate on their cars.

Those summoned were, Adolph Godsen, 42, of West Stout Avenue, Port Ewen; Edward Talamantes, 54, of Valley Stream; Leo W. Darwak, 53, of 115 Second Avenue, Burton Shoemaker, 48, of RD 3, Box 157, Kingston; Phyllis Newman, 45, of 53 Plymouth Avenue; Charles Ricciardi, 70, of Brooklyn, and Sadie Gruberg, 63, of 118 Harding Avenue, who also was cited for failure to produce a registration certificate.

Lester Smith, 38, of the Huntington Hotel, was summoned for being an unlicensed taxi operator.

Two-Way Aid

TWO-WAY AID—Chairman William C. Stolk of the Committee for Economic Development is a firm believer that it would be good business and good citizenship for big corporations to invest some of their money, manpower and managerial skill in helping to solve the nation's social problems. He says business corporations are far better qualified than government agencies to solve a wide variety of current social problems from training the unemployed for jobs to rebuilding urban ghettos. West Camp Fire Is Under Probe

A fire which damaged the old vacant two-room Evesport Schoolhouse at West Camp late Tuesday night is under investigation today, according to fire officials of Malden-West Camp Fire Company.

Capt. John Fox said there was no electricity in the vacant wooden frame building and because of a previous fire there, is considered of suspicious origin. Former Chief Harry L. Moose after investigation reported the suspicious nature of the fire to the state police at Lake Katrine. Fire officials said they believed the building is owned by James Igoe of Veteran.

APPLES YEAR 'ROUND
New Yorkers are fortunate to live right in the heart of apple country, says Louise M. Kakarago, Extension Home Economist. Not only do New York farms produce the largest amount of apples in the country, but they store the largest amount in the East for use later in the season. And New York processors manufacture more apple products, like applesauce, slices, and juice, than anywhere else in the country.

Fall is apple time, and harvest of the major varieties of this year's crop is underway. In New York State the crop is expected to be about 9 per cent below last year. Cold, wet weather during pollination last spring produced a smaller set of apples. For the entire country, the apple crop is expected to be almost as large as last year.

Although slightly fewer apples are in sight from the nearby Hudson Valley, the major source of supply for New York City markets, apple size is running larger than usual, and quality is excellent, reports William H. Palmer, Cooperative Extension Agent in Agriculture in Ulster County. Prices may run a little higher than last year because of the somewhat smaller crop accompanied by a strong demand for apples. Although the overall supply of apples is smaller than last year, shoppers will find plenty of fresh picked, high quality apples at the markets now, during the peak of the harvest. A tray of perfect apples, all the same size, covered with a shrink-tight film costs more than a poly bag of assorted size apples that may have some bruises. But many shoppers want the tray pack because the apples are better protected with less chance of bruising. It costs more to produce these packages than poly bags, and consumers pay for the extra service.

One New York apple grower breaks down the cost of apples in this way: from each pound, 5 cents goes to the grower, 4 to 5 cents is for packing, which includes materials, labor, and transportation, and 5 to 7 cents is the mark up from wholesale to retail. Marketing costs such as packaging, labor, and transportation have increased in recent years.

Variety influences price—Typically, Cortland apples sell for less per pound than McIntosh, and Red Delicious and Golden Delicious sell for more than McIntosh. People like rich, red color, easily identifiable shape, crispness, and flavor of Red Delicious apples, placing them in strong demand. Golden Delicious apples are gaining rapidly in popularity, too. Cortland apples are often featured on special sale to attract buyers. It costs more to produce some varieties of apples than others.

Size—Medium size apples, 2½ to 2¾ inches in diameter, are the best choice for general use. Large apples often command a premium price; use them where appearance counts. Small apples may be preferred for children's use in lunch boxes and snacks. Sometimes they cost less than the larger sizes.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Craft-Hinchey Exchange Vows

Miss Deborah Craft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad A. Craft, Saugerties, became the bride of Joseph D. Hinchey Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hinchey Sr., Saugerties, on Saturday, Sept. 28, at St. John's Church, Veteran.

The Rev. Albert Brodbeck officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Roy Potts, organist, accompanied Mrs. William Schirmer, who sang traditional wedding selections. Arrangements of white chrysanthemums decorated the altar and white satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a peau de soie, full-length gown, styled with a full-length lace cage of sequins and seed pearls. The long train was edged with scalloped lace. A queen's crown of rhinestones and seed pearls held her three tier illusion veil and she carried a cascade of white spider chrysanthemums and ivy.

Mrs. Diana Johnson, West Camp, was matron of honor. She wore a full-length gown of silk, red copper color, with a panel train, edged with lace. A bow crown secured her matching veil and she carried gold and copper chrysanthemums in wedding ring basket.

Attendants were the Misses Cathy Hinchey, sister of the bridegroom, Saugerties, Cathy Mullins, New York City; Carolyn O'Connor and Madeleine Becard, both of Saugerties. Their moss green gowns were styled identically to that of the matron of honor and they carried gold and rust chrysanthemums in wedding ring baskets.

Kevin Sullivan, cousin of the bridegroom, New York City, was best man. Ushers were Murray Craft, brother of the bride; John Hinchey, cousin of the bridegroom; Peter Aiello, all of Saugerties; and Darrell Johnson, West Camp.

After the wedding a reception for 120 guests was held at the Flamingo.

For her wedding trip to Pleasant View Lodge, Freehold, the bride chose a three piece gray knit suit with beige accessories. She wore a white spider chrysanthemum corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Saugerties High School, Class of 1967. Her husband is also a graduate of Saugerties High School, Class of 1967. He is serving with the U. S. Army and will be stationed in South Vietnam.

Mr. and Mrs. Hinchey will reside at Saugerties.

Know Dance Manners

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeature Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — First dance fever grips lots of young people early in the school year. What is the right thing to do at a dance? An 18-year-old sister of a 14-year-old and four of her girl friends were heard advising the younger girl on how to get along with boys. Their advice, they say, boils down to this: Avoid conflict, be sincere, treat him like a man! The girls are cool types, although their advice might sound a little old-fashioned.

Should you accept a last minute date to a dance?

(Why not assume you are the first he called, they told her. After all, don't talk yourself out of fun.)

What do you do when you finish a dance with a boy at a school dance?

(You thank him as he returns you to your friends.)

What can you talk about to a strange boy—"I get very nervous," little Sis explained.

(Begin the conversation and let him take over, they advise. For example, "Are you going out for sports?" If his reply is negative, say something like, "Oh, you are the studious type." If he doesn't bite on one of those you aren't going to make much headway. If he begins to talk, he won't stop, but let's hope that his mother didn't advise HIM to ask the questions, the girls said.)

If he returns with me to my friends, should I introduce him? (Not obligatory, the girls say, but if he lingers you might say, do you know Joe Smith or what-ever his name is.)

What do I do if my partner is such a terrible dancer that I can't bear it?

(You must finish the dance, they advised. If he comments about it, pretend you haven't noticed. The girls advised that this kind of consideration can lead to dates, and he will not be embarrassed to ask you to give him a few private dance lessons.)

They also suggest that as time goes on a girl must cultivate the knack of dislodging herself from a partner who inconsiderately continues to ask for dances even though he can't dance.

Suppose some idiot asks me to dance and acts crazy on the dance floor? asked the 14-year-old girl.

(Give a high sign to a friend on the stag line, who should understand. You do this with a doe-eyed look, they suggest.)

If a boy you don't know invites you to go out after the dance, what do you do?

(This answer required lots of cogitating. The consensus was that if you've arrived with a group, you go home with it... that you shouldn't ever leave a dance with a stranger. And if the boy is really keen about you, he'll telephone you for a date. Above all, don't act too eager, they said.)

The older girls also instructed her not to become one of the mob—"Don't do something because others do it." "Don't think the world has come to an end if you don't have a date on Saturday night." "Never appear too anxious for a date but be responsive when asked."

It is easy to get a second date with a boy, they suggest, if you remember to maintain the feminine attitude and be a good listener.

It's Checks for Fall

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Every young miss who expects to cash in on her fashion benefits has to take into account plenty of checks for fall.

This is the cheekiest, checkiest, maddest plaided season. And for good reason.

Remember when every check had to be balanced? A mild check had to be used by itself with perhaps a neat white collar or a tiny black bow; and every wild check had to be calmed down by a plain and sober fabric partner.

But these are the years in which kids are asking why things have to be done the old way? Why must there be rules?

As a result, designers for kids, and their mothers alike, are trying new ways. They are making hitherto unheard of combinations and discovering that the juxtaposition of plaids, checks and double-checks happens to be pleasant and wearable.

The plaid craze warmed up with gingham in summer but really got hot in the fall with American wool in a variety of weights, textures and patterns ranging from petite checks in black and white to broad, bold blanket plaids.

Being great mixers, the clan of rectangles has become a great basis for growing checkered school wardrobes.

Of course, the adult population now sees the merit in plaids too. Grown girls are not only mixing, matching, and clashing their plaids for daytime wear, but are carrying the same checkered views into cocktail and evening wear.

Nobody is timid about a bold plaid anymore.

The Zephaniah Lodge of B'nai B'rith will hold a commemorative dance on Saturday evening at the Temple Emanuel, Albany Avenue, from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m., commencing the celebration of the international organization's 125th anniversary. Dr. Henry Jacobs, chairman of the dance, has announced.

Boys, Girls Together
Boys and girls demand equal opportunity to wear real leather, suede and fur fashions as part of the fall "country look."

SUCCOTH — The Jewish religious festival of thanksgiving, is now being celebrated. The eight day "Festival of Thanksgiving" commemorates the wilderness-wanderings of the "Children of Israel" after their deliverance from Egyptian bondage. Succah, a temporary structure used during the festival for dining or serving refreshments, is comprised of a roof of loosely-laid branches with the interior decorated with a harvest of vegetables, fruits and flowers. The Succah symbolizes temporary "tabernacles" used during wilderness-wanderings of the children of Israel. Lulav and Esrog, a palm branch and citrus fruit, are used together with a spray of myrtle and willow, exemplifying the entire realm of vegetation. During prayer-ceremony they are pointed in the four directions of the compass, acknowledging God's sovereignty over the whole universe. Customarily, after synagogue services, congregations partaking of light refreshments in the Succah. A typical home Succah, erected at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Raphael Klein, 79 Spring Street, Kingston, is pictured above. (Freeman photo by Haines).

SHE FOR SHOES — Costa Rican 400 meter runner Jean Robotham and trainer Augusto Pila look through an Olympic Village shop window at the "official" track shoe — one which many athletes say doesn't suit them. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Olympic Controversy

Mexico: Baby Needs New Shoes

By JOE SARGIS
UPI Sports Writer
MEXICO CITY (UPI) — The "Big Shoe" controversy hit the 1968 Olympic Games Tuesday, and if it isn't solved in a hurry there are going to be an awful lot of unhappy track and field athletes in Mexico City.

Lee Evans, the world 400-meter dash record holder from San Jose, Calif., disclosed that a Mexican government ban against all other shoe manufacturers but one has left him and many other athletes with old and tattered shoes for the competition which begins on Sunday.

"The way I've heard it," said Evans, "is that the Mexican government signed an exclusive contract with just one shoe manufacturer and won't let others bring their shoes into the country. As a result, many of us here don't have the shoes we like. Personally, I like a shoe with a long spike but the company permitted to sell shoes here has only shoes with short spikes."

"I understand," continued Evans, "that the British and other countries have started a petition to the International Olympic Committee. I've started one, too, among the Americans. This is just awful. If I can't get the shoes I need then I will have to run in a pair of old tattered practice shoes."

There were many, but all unconfirmed, reports about town that one of the so-called illegal shoe manufacturers tried to slip a shipment of shoes past customs guards and its representatives were apprehended, and may even be in jail.

It was difficult to substantiate the reports with Mexican officials. An American Embassy representative said he had not heard of the incident but was checking to see if any Americans were involved.

At the American final trials at South Lake Tahoe, Calif., in September, athletes were allowed to use any shoe they liked. Evans and John Carlos of New York City used types of shoes banned in Mexico to set their world records of 44 seconds flat in the 400-meter dash and 19.7 seconds in the 200-meter dash, respectively. Evans' shoes had six long spikes on the sole and Carlos' 68 brush-like needles.

Evans said Wade Bell, the ball coach Hank Iba observed 800-meter runner from Ogden, Utah, is in even worse shape. "Wade has a foot problem and all his shoes have to be made from a special mold," said Evans. "The company which makes his shoes is banned here. I don't know what he can do."

McLain, World Series' Biggest Flop, May Get His Third Start In 6th Game

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Outspoken Denny McLain, admitting he thought the Detroit Tigers were finished when he was blasted Sunday in the fourth game of the World Series, may be a surprise starter in the sixth game Wednesday in an attempt to keep the revived Tigers alive.

Manager Mayo Smith said Tuesday after a workout in Detroit that he will choose either McLain, Earl Wilson or Joe Sparrma to pitch against the St. Louis Cardinals in the sixth game with the Cards leading when the Cards took a 3-1 lead three games to two. The Cardinals will counter with Ray Washburn, winner of the third game.

The game will start at 1 p.m. CDT at Busch Memorial Stadium with the weatherman predicting a "chance of showers" with the high temperature around 70. The Cards were a 3 to 2 favorite to win Wednesday and 9 to 2 to take the series.

A 31-game winner during the regular season, McLain has been the flop of the Series. He's lost two games and has been battered for nine hits and seven runs in 7 2-3 innings for a 5.63 ERA.

"I didn't think we'd be in it anymore," McLain said after he was routed in the fourth game when the Cards took a 3-1 lead in the best of seven series.

"But now I feel terrific," he added after the Tigers rallied for a 5-3 victory Monday in the fifth game to escape elimination.

McLain, who's been bothered with arm and shoulder trouble and has been taking x-ray treatments, was given a shot of cortisone Tuesday and threw for 10 minutes on the sidelines at Tiger Stadium in Detroit before the team flew here in the afternoon for the sixth game. "My arm and shoulder are feeling a lot better," McLain said.

If he can go, McLain will probably be the Tiger starter since Wilson's leg is bothering him and he didn't even throw Tuesday. Wilson lost the third game to Washburn. Sparrma, who has a 27.00 ERA in this series since he allowed two runs, one earned, in 1-3 of an inning after relieving McLain Sunday, is figured to have a chance only if McLain and Wilson are physically unable to pitch.

Should the underdog Tigers win the sixth game, Smith is then expected to come back with his two-game winner Mickey Lolich with two days rest to face Bob Gibson—who is establishing himself as the finest World Series pitcher of all time with seven straight victories.

Lolich, who has chalked up the only two Tiger victories in this series after compiling a 17-9 regular season record, has been brilliant while McLain, McLain a chance to make up for his two previous failures—ERA in the regular season, has been "demolished" twice by the Cardinals.

Ironically, it was McLain who said after clinching the pennant that he wanted to "demolish" the Cards—a notice that was put on the bulletin board in the Cardinal dressing room.

Now, on top of that notice, the Cards have put a sign reading "Denny McLain flunked Phys Ed."

Underneath is a picture of the "snoopy" character from the "peanuts" comic strip with the saying "there's no sense in doing a lot of barking if you don't really have anything to say."

A third start would give McLain a chance to make up for his two previous failures—Washburn went 5 1-3 innings and allowed three hits and three runs while winning the third game Saturday in Tiger Stadium.

Should the Series go seven and Lolich start with two days rest, he'd be the third pitcher in five years to start the seventh game that way. Gibson won the seventh game in 1964 against the Yankees with two days rest and Jim Lonborg of the Red Sox lost to Gibson last year after a two-day layoff.

Gibson said his arm is sore and tired after pitching in the rain for so long Sunday but he said he'll be ready if there's a seventh game.

"There won't be a seventh game," he added, "I hope." The Cardinals will use their regular lineup against right-handed pitchers with Roger Maris back in rightfield while the Tiger Manager hasn't decided whether to start Don Wert or Eddie Mathews at third base.

DETROIT—I left frigid, rain swept and windblown Tiger Stadium with a hatful of memories of: a fallen hero (Denny McLain), an old hero (Al Kaline) and a new hero (Mickey Lolich).

Kaline is climaxing a long, 16-year wait for a shot in a World Series with customary heroics. McLain's sudden tumble into oblivion is one of the sad Tiger stories of the season.

LOLICH PROVED what Detroit sportswriters said—he pitches best in football weather or even hockey weather. When the weather dropped 20 degrees between the first and second World Series games in St. Louis, "that was great," the Tiger left hander said. He responded with a six-hitter to win 8 to 1.

Monday in 56 degree temperature he held off the Cardinals after that awful lathering he got in the first inning to prevail over six Cardinal pitchers, 5 to 3 and keep the Tigers alive.

Lolich's love of chilly weather goes back to his boyhood in Portland, Ore., where rain, fog and cold winds are common. There are free-wheeling pitchers and two-wheeling pitchers but Mickey is a two-wheeling pitcher.

HE HAS BEEN a motorcycle fan almost since the day he fell off his bicycle as a small boy in Portland and injured his right arm. That's how he became a left-handed pitcher. He does everything else right-handed.

Lolich lives in Washington, Mich., north of Detroit, and regularly rides his motorcycle to the stadium. This gives Tiger officials ulcers but Lolich insists he's as safe on the motorcycle as on the pitcher's mound and, of late, this has been very, very safe.

Overlooked in the Sunday shellacking was the fine two-inning relief stint for the Tigers by Poughkeepsie-born Fred Lasher. He yielded only a ground single to Orlando Cepeda in two innings and his flashy side-arm stuff had the Cardinals off balance. Manager Mayo Smith had Lasher up as first relief choice when the Cardinals assaulted Lolich in the first inning Monday.

Although not used as frequently in 1968 as in 1967, when he appeared in 30 games (winning two and saving eight), he still made some valuable contributions to the pennant winning Tigers.

Lasher, acquired from the Minnesota Twins farm system in a minor league draft, has been effective in relief for the Tigers ever since they brought him up from their Toledo farm club in late 1967. His promotion followed brilliant relief work at Montgomery and Toledo that season which saw him rise rapidly from Class AA to the major leagues.

Lasher is something of a baseball oddity, having pitched only in his senior year at Poughkeepsie. He eschewed baseball in his first three years. He won All-DUSO honors. He hadn't pitched for the Tigers since Sept. 2 before the series stint.

AN INFECTED WISDOM tooth caused him great trouble early in the season and he pitched only 47 innings. He now lives in Janesville, Wisconsin, but his mother resides in Poughkeepsie and is employed at Schatz Federal Bearings.

THE DETROIT end of the series had to be the coldest on record. At game time on successive days the thermometer hovered at 55, 52 and 56 degrees. Segregation has even hit the pressboxes. Working staffs with Class A credentials rode the elevator to the third deck and had roast beef sandwiches for lunch. The rest of us were assigned the service elevator to the second deck and walked the precipitous ramps to the top of the stadium—and got box lunches for the midday snack.

Determined Tiger fans whiffed price-gouging parking lot operators who were charging $7, $8 and $9 for parking across the street from Tiger Stadium, despite protests by Mayor Cavanaugh, the Common Council and other officials. But the fans weren't buying and customers stayed away by the thousands. They socked it to the gougers by parking downtown and walking to the stadium.

One $8 lot just across the ballpark on Michigan Avenue had about as many cars as you'd expect for a weekday game with the Washington Senators.

A city health inspector kayoed 800 box lunches the Tigers were providing for newspaper and radio men covering the series. The inspector said the ham sandwiches were tainted and ordered the Tigers to dispose of them.

"I ate two of them and they tasted all right to me," said a Tiger official. "I think the guy just wanted to get to see the game." P.S.—the official survived.

Romney Raps Jose's Anthem

DETROIT (UPI) — Gov. George Romney of Michigan Tuesday raised his voice in the discord over folk singer Jose Feliciano's rendition of the national anthem at the World Series.

"Personally, I was disappointed," said Romney. "There are certain things that are pretty sacred, and the Star Spangled Banner is one of them."

"The national anthem is like a flag to me." Feliciano sang a slow, undulating version Monday before a national television audience and a crowd of 53,000 present to watch the Detroit Tigers and St. Louis Cardinals.

The 22-year-old blind Puerto Rican singer's version brought jeers from many fans, and several telephone calls to newspaper offices and television stations.

"I was a little scared when I was asked to sing," Feliciano said. "I was afraid people would misconstrue it and say I'm making fun out of it. But I'm not, it's the way I feel."

Archers—that dedicated group of hunters who like to do things the hard way—are reminded by the State Conservation Department that the special archery season is fast approaching. In the Northern Zone, bowmen having both a big game license and archery stamp will be afield 14 days before the gunners — from Oct. 11 through Oct. 24. The regular Northern Zone big game season runs from Oct. 25 through Dec. 3.

In the rest of the state, archers, get a 16-day lead with the season running from Nov. 2 through Nov. 17, affording the bowmen three weekends to hunt. Gunning season in the Southern Zone, which includes Ulster, runs from Nov. 18 through Dec. 3.

During the special archery season, bowmen may take deer of either sex. They must do so with a longbow capable of shooting a legal hunting arrow at least 150 yards. A legal hunting arrow is one with two or more cutting edges measuring not less than 7/8-inches at its widest point.

Although the odds are against the archer taking a deer—about 24 to one, in fact—the unsuccessful archer may still hunt during the regular season with either bow or firearms. However, once the special season is over, only deer with antlers three inches or longer may be taken, regardless of the weapon used.

Find yourself a stand, paint up like a cigar store Indian and hope for the best.

A law we'd like to see: Governor Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania recently approved legislation which makes it illegal to cast the rays of a spotlight, headlight or other artificial light upon big game on a highway, in a field, woodland or forest during the hours between midnight and sunrise. Sure makes sense and it sure would put a crimp into those night riders who seem to enjoy annoying a grazing deer in search of trophy racks for those "deer pools" which are having a tough time getting customers after some shenanigans caused some hefty discussions at nearby sport shops and taverns last season.

A real early scoop: Many lakes and ponds in the Adirondacks are to be open for trout ice fishing, come winter ice. We'll get to more of this later after we get a full listing. Wanna bet Charley Cole, Vern Radel and Ed Radel are already getting their tip-ups in shape?

Late Season Fish Reports: Ray Caunitz, the grand old sportsman managed some good pike and bass fishing at famed Gananwaqua, Canada along with Clayton Cunningham of Jersey and two fishing friends from Rochester.

This past weekend, Joe Duncan the flying fisherman, Roland Augustine, Gus Avery and Dave Hoffman fished these same waters. The sudden weather change put a damper on the bass fishing but the boys did manage some northern pike.

Charles J. Kelly, city plumbing inspector, and William Bence, local plumbing contractor report a two-day limit in the new Cannonsville Reservoir of pickerel that ranged from 16 to 23 1/2 inches.

George Schermerhorn of Mickey's Barber Shop and Tony Pagliari of the Crown St. Shoe Repair took a last minute shot at the Cedar River in the Adirondacks. George managed to pick up some trout on wet flies while Tony enjoyed the autumn scenery.

Warren Werner trolled Lewey Lake and then did some casting on Lake Abanakee at Indian Lake in search of northern pike and reports all his lures are washed off for the winter storage.

Charlie Shader and his Mrs., twins Leisa and Lila ran into snow, sleet and rain this past weekend spent at Bob and Dottie Geandreau's on Adirondack Lake. The limited fishing did not produce anything for the frying pan. The town of Indian Lake buzzing with the special bear season but no reports yet on a venture that was supposed to be a real bear bonanza.

Nordic Ski Club Holds First Meeting

The Rosendale Nordic Ski Club held its first meeting after the summer recess with committee reports of summer activity and outlines of programs for the coming winter season.

President Sylvia Ricci of High Falls, reported that the club has a roster of 62 members with a membership goal for the coming year of 75.

Emphasis by the club will be placed on a Junior instructional and competitive program with the Nordic Ski Club sponsoring competitors in away age group competition under the leadership of Junior Chairman Oscar Johnson of Stone Ridge and Coach Ken Tokle of High Falls.

Among the returning competitors in the Junior group will be Bob Thornton of Stone Ridge and Ed Hunlock of High Falls who shared the spotlight as jumpers last winter. Both have jumped on 40 meter hills both have approached the 100-foot mark in past competition; and both are considered threats to Brattleboro and Lake Placid jumpers in their own age groups.

Bill Johnson of Stone Ridge and Bob Thornton will lead the returning junior cross-country runners and Bill Mills of Stone Ridge and Bob Thornton are expected to pace the Nordic Combined juniors.

The Rosendale Nordic Ski Club has scheduled its own Winter Carnival for January 18 and 19 with a full program of cross country and jumping events in all age groups for Junior boys and cross country events for Junior girls.

DC Decision Is No For KHS-MHS-NFA

By DENNIS R. CARO
Freeman Sports Staff

After three years of waiting, the application of Kingston High School, as well as Newburgh and Middletown for entrance into the Central Division of the Dutchess County Scholastic League have been denied.

Former league president Myron Rindsberg today said decision was made unanimously and without discussion.

In 1965, when the DCSL began, discussing realignment of its three divisions, Kingston and Middletown applied for admission and the matter was tabled for three years pending a study.

Last February the subject was again tabled when Newburgh made its application, and in April it was tabled for the third time.

Rindsberg said the league acted on a report from a committee representing all three divisions, but the actual motion was made by one of the large, Central Division schools, the division the three applicants wanted to compete in.

"I think that was the fair way to do it," Rindsberg said.

"The feeling here is that the division is large enough."

The realignment report removed Cardinal Farley Military Academy, Rhinebeck, from the Central Division in football, effective 1970, but Rindsberg said the league intends to pick up John Jay High School to keep the complement at eight.

John Jay, the new high school in the Wappingers Falls district, began its sports program this year with cross-country.

By 1970 it is expected to field teams in every sport.

The Dutchess County decision leaves the DUSO league in pretty much the same position it has been in since Poughkeepsie decided to stay across the river seven years ago.

With only four teams, (Port Jervis is the only other competitor in football) the league members end up playing more than half of their schedule against non league opponents. And it is hard to consistently get the team up for a non-league game.

US Swimmers Set To Snare Medals

By GARY KALE
UPI Sports Writer

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Don Schollander, a four-time champion at Tokyo in 1964, and his heir-apparent, Mark Spitz, said Tuesday they could account for seven swimming gold medals between them, but that world records would be scarce because of Mexico City's high altitude.

"This will be my final Olympics," said the handsome 22-year-old Yale graduate from Jacksonville, Fla. "Competitive swimming is for the younger set."

Schollander, part of the 32-man and 29-girl U.S. swimming contingent which touched down after a flight from Denver, said the team had some difficulty adjusting to the high altitude at the Air Force Academy in Colorado during pre-Olympic training sessions.

"Although we managed to recover most of our speed, the times were off. I think the winning times will be slower than the records we keep breaking at sea level."

Schollander will compete in the 200-meter freestyle and 800-meter relay. Spitz, an 18-year-old phenom from Santa Clara, Calif., goes in the 100-meter freestyle, the 100 and 200-meter butterfly and three relay races.

"When you reach my age," explained Schollander, "you don't swim the shorter 100-meter races which require that sudden burst of speed. The 200-meter event gives me a chance to swim a 'thinking man's race.'"

Spitz, recovering from a cold which hampered his training, holds the world record for the 100-meter butterfly at 55.6 seconds and the 200-meter butterfly in two minutes, 5.7 seconds.

"We don't want to really think about gold medals now," Spitz grinned, "but there are some observers who believe we can do better than Tokyo."

Actually, these swimming experts think the U.S. can reap more gold medals in this sport than the combined efforts of all other countries.

Guillermo Echeverria of Mexico is considered the one strong opposition to American interests in the 400 and 1500-meter races. Mike Burton of Des Moines, Iowa, won the 1968 Olympic trials for these events and if he beats Echeverria it would mean two more golds for the U.S.

Bill Lippman of Los Angeles, the men's team manager, observed the Yanks "have the finest 1-2-3 strength in the world."

Sherm Chavoor of Carmichael, Calif., the women's coach, shared Lippman's enthusiasm with the prediction "we'll bring home a lot of gold."

The butterfly and backstroke events will draw stiff competition from Europeans, but Chavoor insists his girls could surprise even in these events.

Sue Pitt of Highland Park, N.J., an alternate in the relay, was the only casualty on the women's team. She bravely smiled while limping from the plane on crutches. The 20-year-old University of Vermont student injured her left knee during training. She believes the bandages will come off in time for the Olympic competition which begins Oct. 17.

Catie Ball, Debbie Meyer and Claudia Kolb, stars of the women's women's team, chatted with newsmen as they went through customs and expressed optimism over the team's chances. They were excited over an opportunity to win their first Olympic gold medals.

Red Hook Wins X-C Tri Meet

SAUGERTIES — Red Hook High School placed all five of its scoring runners in the top ten to take the triangular cross country meet here 31-36-62 over Our Lady of Lourdes and Saugerties High Schools here yesterday.

Paul Olsak of Lourdes won the race, setting a new course record, and Saugerties star John Gilbane broke his own school record with a second place finish, but the five Red Hook harriers all finished within 15 seconds of each other to lock the meet up early.

Gilbane, who set a record on his home course with a 12:28 finish a week ago, led Olsak until the final yards of the 2.5 mile layout, but couldn't keep up with the Lourdes harrier's stretch drive.

Olsak finished in 12:24 and Gilbane in 12:26.

Dear Abby

By ABGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Ron and I have been married for four years. We have three small children, and I think I'm pregnant again. Ron expects me to wash his hair, manicure his nails (fingers and toes), pick up his dirty clothes, keep the car washed and in running order, and no matter how tired I am, I have to stay up until he's ready to go to bed.

He also expects me to get up before he does so his breakfast will be on the table as soon as he opens his eyes. I loved him when I married him, but I'm not so sure any more. I think you have the picture. What I want to know is, how do you get a man who expects so much to settle for less?

"HAD IT" IN CHICAGO
DEAR HAD IT: Don't throw the whole book at him at once. Let him have it a page at a time. Start by telling Ron he's expecting too much. And for a wife who's not "sure" of her "love," you're expecting too often.

DEAR ABBY: My 16-year-old daughter has lots of cute young girl friends who come to our house often. I don't mind that, in fact I enjoy having them, but my husband enjoys it too much.

He puts the records on, and asks them to dance. He is overly familiar with them, squeezing them, hugging them, and trying to kiss them. He tries to get them to sit on his lap, and in general he makes an old fool out of himself.

Not wanting to hurt his feelings, they go along with it, but I can see how pained they are when he tries to pull one of them down on his lap.

Should I tell these girls to discourage him? Or should I tell this old jackass to act his age?

DISGUSTED
DEAR DISGUSTED: Why not cover all the bases, and do both?

DEAR ABBY: This morning a young woman came to my door and said she wanted to talk to me about my husband of three weeks, whom I'll call John. I invited her in, and could scarcely believe my ears.

She told me that she and John had lived together for three years, during which time she had his two children out of wedlock.

Then she said she learned only last week that John had married me, so she told him she wanted to break off with him, but he begged her not to, saying his marriage to me was the biggest mistake of his life—that we weren't getting along, and he had asked me for a divorce. (All lies.)

Abby, my whole world has fallen apart. I can't think straight. I am sure this woman is telling the truth because she knows so much about John and me, and now so many things I never understood before seem to fall into place.

Should I tell John what I know? Or should I pack up and leave without saying anything? He is so persuasive, I'm afraid he might talk me into staying. I'm all torn up inside. Please help me.

BRIDE OF THREE WEEKS

DEAR BRIDE: Tell John about your caller and give him a chance to speak his piece. If his story doesn't match hers, ask him to repeat it in her presence. If he's lying, and you want to end your marriage, your chances for an annulment appear excellent.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "THE WIFE OF A MAN WHO HATES PAJAMAS": Madame, what a man sleeps in is between him and his wife.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Los Angeles, Cal. 90069 and want to end your marriage, your chances for an annulment appear excellent.

FOR ABBY'S NEW BOOKLET "WHAT TEEN AGERS WANT TO KNOW," SEND $1.00 TO ABBY, BOX 69700, LOS ANGELES, CAL. 90069.

(Hear DEAR ABBY Mon. thru Sat. at 10:30 a.m. WKNY-reply write to Abby, Box 69700, 1490)

Today's hand was played almost 40 years ago. South still wins when reminded of it.

The event was Life Masters Individual. This event has long since been relegated to a minor role because the top players don't like to play in it. Somehow or other an individual brings out the worst in everyone. Thus, South's four-heart call was a rather bad bid. Three no-trump would have been far better but in an individual there is a really strong tendency not to let your partner play the dummy.

Anyway, South did bid four hearts and the way the cards lie it should have brought him a top score.

He won the spade lead with dummy's ace and promptly finessed his jack of hearts. If West had risen with the queen he would have collected a spade trick and South would have made five odd. Since the rest of the field was in three no-trump, making four or five, diamonds making six, he would have had his top but West produced the deuce of hearts instead of the queen.

South entered dummy with the ace of diamonds and took a second heart finesse. This time West won the trick. Then West cashed the queen of spades and shifted to his last diamond. South won that trick but the rest of the diamond suit was about as useless as an ice machine at the North Pole. He had to go down two.

Why does South still wince when he is reminded of this hand?

It seems that he congratulated West on his magnificent play. Instead of accepting the accolade, West replied, "Thanks very much but I didn't really make a good play. I was really surprised when I found that I had played the deuce and not the queen on that first heart lead." (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Charlie Chan's Sage Advice

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Instant wisdom now is available for the mere price of a dollar. The source is a new book published by Golden Press. "Quotations from Charlie Chan," listing pearls of consummate insight by the fictional Chinese detective whose old movies help make television bearable.

By a slight coincidence, the slim, soft-cover book comes out as Warner Bros. Seven Arts is re-releasing the Charlie Chan movies to television.

And in addition to the wisdom contained in the volume, one can find pictures in it from such joyous films as "Charlie Chan on Broadway," "Charlie Chan in London," "Charlie Chan in Rio," "Charlie Chan in Shanghai," "Charlie Chan in Panama," "Charlie Chan in Honolulu," "Charlie Chan in Egypt" and "Charlie Chan at the Olympics."

Beware Marriage

Ah, Charlie. If it is marriage one wishes to be filled in on, then harken to his words: "Woman's tongue like sword that never gets rusty." "Woman's heart is like needle at bottom of sea." "Man without relatives is man without troubles." "Good kitchens kill more men than sharp sword."

As for riches: "When money talks, few are deaf." And: "Fresh weed better than wilted rose."

Concerning the law: "Silence is golden, except in police station." "Innocent and guilty are harder to separate than Siamese twins." "Man who fights law always loses; same as grasshopper is always wrong in argument with chicken."

"Law is honest man's eyeglass to see better."

And what of truth? "Elaborate excuse seldom truth." "Truth cannot insult." "Bad alibi like dead fish—cannot stand test of time."

Of battle: "If strength were all, tiger would not fear scorpion." Of adversity: "One

Wallace in Albany

No Welcome Mats

By GERRY MCLAUGHLIN

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Third-party presidential candidate George C. Wallace had permission from Gov. Rockefeller's administration today to use the Capitol steps for a speech. But official Albany rolled out no welcome mats.

Wallace's quest for northern votes took him to this Democratic stronghold after he stumped in New England Tuesday seeking "the support of people of all races and colors."

Following a long-standing custom, Rockefeller's office authorized any state employee who wished to hear the former Alabama governor to take "reasonable" time off to do so. Rockefeller's assistant press secretary, Daniel F. Barr, said "reasonably" meant "one hour." He said the same permission had been granted for presidential campaign appearances in the past by such men as John F. Kennedy, Richard M. Nixon, Adlai Stevenson and Barry Goldwater.

As Wallace supporters ironed out last-minute details for their man's visit, elements opposed to his candidacy completed plans for a rally across the street from the Capitol. The rally was arranged by The Brothers, an Albany civil rights group.

Albany police officials sent large details of patrolmen to the Capitol and to the scene of the rally.

Deputy Chief Edward McArchie put all off-duty policemen on alert for possible duty if needed.

While the Democratic city administration cooperated with Secret Service and FBI agents in providing security for the Wallace visit, Mayor Erastus Corning II said he had no plans to welcome Wallace.

Likewise, Rockefeller's Republican administration emphasized that the use of the Capitol steps has been a courtesy granted to presidential candidates for at least 12 years.

Rockefeller was in Arkansas campaigning for GOP candidate Richard M. Nixon. Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson was out of town campaigning for Republican legislative candidates.

Wallace supporters had hoped to obtain some other, indoor rostrum for his appearance — to lessen chances of the candidate catching a cold — but were rebuffed in their bid for use of the field house at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in nearby Troy, the only sizeable indoor arena in the Capital District.

That left Wallace with the wide, granite steps of the sprawling Victorian Capitol as his speaking platform. His vista included a huge equestrian statue of Gen. Philip H. Sheridan, the Union cavalry commander who repeatedly defeated Confederate forces in Tennessee and Virginia during the Civil War.

Hubert Hits Nixon On His Crime Views

BOSTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey today attacked Richard M. Nixon's anticrime recommendations calling for nationwide town hall conferences as sounding "like either a call for the vigilantes or for more talk about crime."

"America doesn't need either one," the Democratic presidential nominee said. "The time for talking is over—we need action."

The vice president turned to the crime issue in a speech prepared for the National Association of Retail Druggists, charging that both Nixon and third-party nominee George C. Wallace have done more talking about crime than proposing solutions.

Says Foe Forgets

Humphrey said that Nixon "forgets in his statement to talk about the additional resources urgently needed by state and local police," adding that "In present circumstances, these additional resources must come from the federal government."

Humphrey plans to make the law and order issue the subject of his second nationally televised address of the campaign on Saturday night.

As he has done before, Humphrey stressed the need to upgrade the equipment and training of local police forces, saying, "To wage war on crime in our modern society, we need professional people whose training combines the highest standards and the best interdisciplinary training in crime prevention, crime control and the protection of human rights."

He said that if, as seems likely, the present Congress fails to pass legislation to require registration and licensing of firearms, "the next Congress must do so."

"But where does Mr. Nixon stand on this important question?" he asked. "He says he has spoken out on 167 major issues. Gun control is evidently not among them."

Humphrey said that Nixon's advisers forgot to tell him that his proposals for "a cabinet-level council" to coordinate federal policy on the control and prevention of crime, a National Coordinating Center and a National Academy of Law Enforcement—were already part of the federal government's programs to fight crime.

Then to New York

After his Boston speech, Humphrey flies to New York where tonight he will address the annual dinner of the state's Liberal party, which is backing him.

He plans to spend the remainder of the week in the New York area, except for a Friday trip to Cincinnati for two speeches.

On Tuesday, the vice president told the United Press International editors and publishers conference that, as president "I shall have a new administration with a new team that will make its own evaluations of where we are, what is in our national interest and where we should go."

And he called for annual summit meetings between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Then, the vice president flew to the central New York Democratic stronghold of Utica, where more than 6,000 people inside the Memorial Auditorium, and another 3,000 outside, heard him say that the nation's problems can only be solved by the "liberal Democratic faith" that sustained Presidents Harry S. Truman, John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson.

On the return flight to Washington, Humphrey aides supplied reporters with the latest Sindlinger poll, showing that Nixon's lead over Humphrey has dropped from nine per cent to 3.9 per cent in the past two weeks.

HECKLER GOES HIGH —

Nixon Welcomes Youth

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Richard M. Nixon held out a Republican welcome to the young Tuesday, saying the Democratic party has rejected youth.

Before flying to California Tuesday night, Nixon addressed a packed house in the 3,500-seat Minneapolis Auditorium in the adopted home state of his Democratic rival for the presidency, Hubert H. Humphrey.

The campaign crowd was overwhelmingly friendly but included a small and vocal group of "we want peace" chanters. They interrupted Nixon several times but quickly were drowned out by cries of "We Want Nixon."

One young man, who left the hall under his own steam at the request of police, stopped the GOP candidate at the outset by announcing from the balcony, over a battery-powered megaphone, that "I have a few questions I want to put to you."

Many of the Nixon partisans were young people, too, and the campaigner had a special word for them.

He said Minnesota's Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy deserved much of the credit for their interest in politics and, referring to McCarthy's defeat for the Democratic presidential nomination, added: "Now that you've been rejected by the other party, we'll welcome you in ours."

With three rallies scheduled today in California, Nixon begins intensive concentration on the big-vote states—declaring he's not taking victory for granted.

In a speech prepared for a campaign meeting at Santa Monica, Nixon proposed a "children's antiobscenity act" that would make it a federal criminal offense to knowingly mail obscene matter to those under 16.

"The time has come for new legislation to crack down on the purveyors of filth who peddle the matter to our young," Nixon said.

The GOP candidate plans to gradually increase his voting, seeking efforts in the most populous states until—in the week or so before the Nov. 5 balloting—they claim his exclusive attention.
